CONCLUDES SWING AROUND CIRCLE

President Taft Will Arrive at Washington Some Time Today, it is Thought.

PRESIDENT IN FINE FETTLE

Delivered 350 Speeches and Has Been Seen by 5,000,000 People—Dinner of "Possum and Taters."

Bristol, Tenn., Nov. 11.—His second long swing around the circle practically concluded and his engagements from Boston to San Francisco and back all marked "kept" President Taft tonight was speeding through Tennessee and Virginia en route to Washington. At Bristol, the last scheduled stop on the trip from Knoxville, where he spent the morning, Mr. Taft was less than 300 miles from home. He is due to reach the capital early tomorrow. He will then take a day or two of rest before beginning the work of writing his third annual message to Congress. This message, the President's friends say, will be one of the most important he has ever written.

Mr. Taft is in fine fettle. The hardships of the long journey apparently have had no ill effect upon him for his step was as light and his laugh was cheerful today as when he left Beverly two months ago.

"I am rejoiced to get home from a trip of upwards of 15,000 miles and a visit to about thirty States in which I have had the pleasure of explaining, from my standpoint, some of the important issues of the day to many hundreds of thousands of people," said the President tonight. "I have been materially benefitted by the information which I have received as to the attitude of the people in the different parts of the country as affected by local conditions. The receptions have been very cordial throughout and I am certain that in most instances I have tried to say that, although the trip has been a strenuous one, my health has continued good, and I have suffered no ill effects from the strain."

When hesteps down from his private car in Washington tomorrow morning Mr. Taft will bring to an end one of the longest trips both in number of days on the road and in number of miles traveled ever undertaken by a President.

The Presidential train has covered more than 15,000 miles and if automobile trips were to be included in the calculation the mileage easily would top the sixteen thousand mark. On the present trip the President has climbed mountains, gone into a gold mine, reviewed the greatest American fleet ever assembled, broken ground for a world's exposition, voted at an election and been put through all the "stunts" that Secretary Hilles would permit his entertainers to vent.

The President has delivered close to 350 speeches, passed through about thirty States and been seen by crowds that Mr. Hilles estimates at over 5,000,000 persons. This, the President's last day on the road, was given up to Eastern Tennessee.

Knoxville got six hours of the President's time and on the way to Bristol he made rear-end speeches at five small towns. At Greenville the President caught a glimpse of the home and burial place of Andrew Jackson.

Before he boarded his private car in Knoxville, the President called upon Mrs. W. G. Brownlow, widow of "Parson" Brownlow, one of the famous governors of Tennessee.

Mrs. Brownlow is 92 years old, but her mind was alert and she chatted with Mr. Taft for several minutes. Every President of the United States who has visited Knoxville since the Civil War, has called at the Brownlow home to pay his respects, and Mr. Taft did not wish to leave until he had done so.

The President's dinner tonight consisted practically of Tennessee "possum and 'taters" put aboard the car by the citizens of Johnson City.

EXCITEMENT AT HAMLET.

Night Policeman Fatally Shot by Negro and Posse Pursues.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Hamlet, N. C., Nov. 11.—B. D. Brown, the night policeman here, was shot at 11 o'clock by a negro named Benton, whom he was trying to arrest for an affray. The fight occurred north of the Seaboard Hotel and near Milliken's street. When Officer Brown went to make the arrest, the negro drew his gun and the negro started to run. He called on him to halt and began shooting. The negro turned and shot him through the right lung. The officer was carried to Morrow's Pharmacy, where he is being attended by two doctors. Sheriff Hinson and Deputy Sholes are directing the hunt for the negro who temporarily escaped. A large crowd has gathered and excitement runs high. Violence is feared if the man is arrested.

Canton, Ohio, Nov. 11.—Arthur Turnbull, Democrat, was elected Mayor tonight over Harry Schilling, Socialist. The official count made today showed a tie, after unofficial returns Tuesday indicated Schilling's election by two votes.

COMPROMISE MAY BE AGREED UPON

Fate of Chinese Throne Apparently Rests on Action of Yuan Shi Koi.

PROVINCES MAY BE DIVIDED

A Portion of Country Becoming Republican, Manchuria Remaining Monarchial—Other Provinces Making Own Choice

Peking, Nov. 11. (12:20 A. M.)—The fate of the throne apparently rests on the action of Yuan Shi Kai. The latest message from Yuan, who has been conducting negotiations with the Rebel leader, General Li Yuen-Heng, indicates that compromise is possible, that General Li was becoming less irreconcilable but that there was a difference of opinion between Li and his colleagues on the matter of policy.

According to foreign official telegrams from Hankow last evening, General Li failing to exact better terms, might perhaps be prepared to agree to the partitition of China, that portion of the country south of the Yang Tse becoming republican, Manchuria and Chi Li remaining monarchial and the other provinces making their own choice.

Many of Li's followers demand the overthrow of the government and scouts the idea of dividing the empire. This is supposed to be the reason why General Li asks delegates from other provinces to meet at Wu Chang, and appoint Yuan Chang Sing, the noted revolutionary leader, commander-in-chief, and retained for himself the governorship which gives him greater freedom in administrative agents. Huang Sing is making Han Yang his headquarters where he is superintending the Rebel defense.

Prince Ching, the acting premier, and other high officials, have guaranteed General Chang's safety, i. he will come to Peking. General Chang has not yet answered to do this, but remains at Lanchau with his troops awaiting definite results from the Wu Chang negotiations.

The revolutionaries at Tien Tsin do not consider it wise at present to force the issues, because of the presence of the troops at Lanchau whose sympathies are doubtful.

The provincial assembly at Mukden has vetoed the Russian loan and informed the viceroy that if it is taken up they will declare independence.

The government has requested that the reported flight of the Emperor be officially denied.

Rogers Green, the American consul general at Hankow, reports that big guns have been mounted for an attack upon Han Yang. Chinese officials report that the bombardment of Han Yang began yesterday.

Seriousness of Revolution.

Washington, Nov. 11.—The apparent seriousness of the revolutionary situation at Foo Chow is evidenced from the report that the Manchus there had surrendered to the rebels and that the Tartar general had been beheaded. Apparently anticipating that a similar fate would befall him should he fall into the hands of the rebels, the viceroy committed suicide. This information came to the Navy Department late today from Rear Admiral Murdock, commander-in-chief of the Asiatic fleet, whose flagship is now lying off Shanghai.

Completes Magna Charta.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 11.—Eighteen Chinese scholars, who have been engaged at the task for 30 years, have completed the magna charta of China, according to Ho Lee, president of the Young China Society Lodge here. It will be promulgated as the constitution of the United Republic of China, he said, just as soon as the fall of Peking is announced.

While republican in form, the government prescribed by the savants will be far in advance of that in vogue in the United States or elsewhere, Ho Lee declared today. Economics and the welfare of the proletariat were the chief concerns of the constitution-makers.

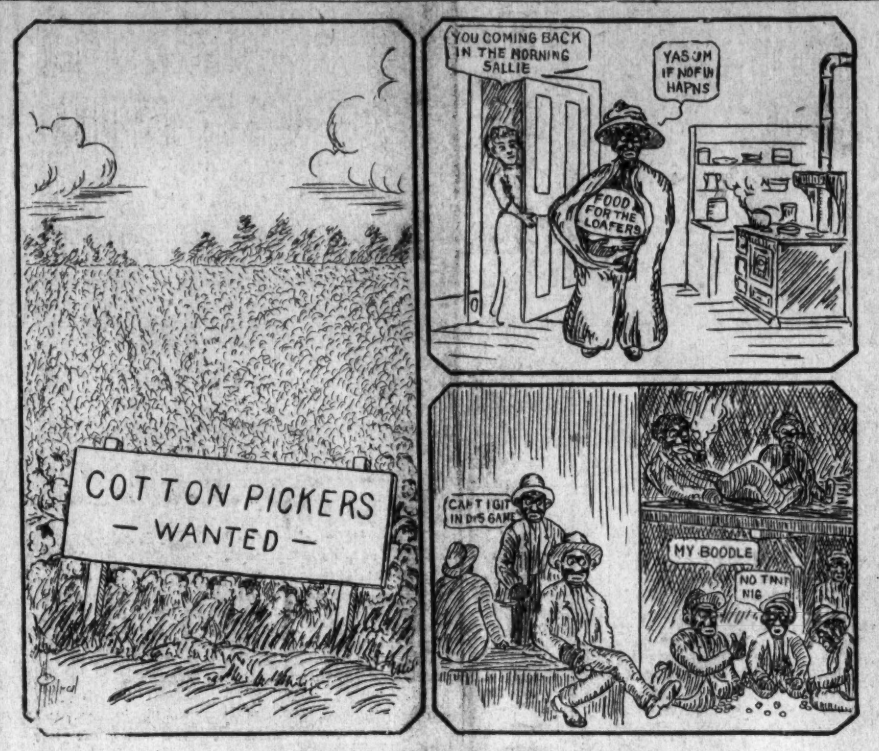
Trusts will be prevented by provisions limiting firms or corporations to certain shares of the business in their particular lines.

Every company must pay a scale of wages prescribed by the government. This, Ho Lee said, is a feature particularly attractive to the coolie classes, whose pay now holds them down to the famine line.

Plan for Convention.

San Francisco, Nov. 11.—Details of a plan for a constitutional convention at Shanghai, at which the new Chinese republic will be established and a constitution adopted, was made public by leaders of the Chinese National Association here today. Delegates already are on the way to the convention city, according to Tong King Chong, secretary of the association.

Every province which has been taken, or has voluntarily joined the revolutionary cause, will be represented and provisions will be made for the admission of the other provinces later. The delegates have been appointed by the revolutionary parties in the various provinces, but their actions will be submitted to a vote of the people for ratification after peace is restored. Each delegate has been pledged to sanction only a form of government based upon the absolute abdication of the Manchu dynasty and the institution of a thoroughly republican system of representative rule.



OUR VAGRANT POPULATION.

TO INVESTIGATE WIRE RATES

Both Telephone and Telegraph Charges to Be Investigated by Inter-State Commerce Commission—Action

Washington, Nov. 11.—A thorough investigation of existing telgraph and telephone rates is believed to be foreshadowed by demands which have been filed with the Inter-State Commerce Commission in the form of petitions, directing the attention of the Commission "to the apparent purpose of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company to monopolize all facilities for wire communication."

The movement to compel action on the part of the Commission is a concerted one. The petitions profess to set forth the desires of individuals in several Western States.

While no action has been taken thus far, the Commission, it is said, fully realize that it is only a matter of a short time before the question of rates must be reviewed. When the Commission issued its order assuming jurisdiction over companies engaged in inter-State business as common carriers of messages by wire, it was noted that the order did not undertake to fix or adjust the rates to be enacted. Referring to the rate and certain other sections of the law, the order recited that the Commission at that time withheld expression of its views "with respect to the amenability of these carriers."

In the petitions it is urged that "quick, reliable and economical intercommunication is so essential to the commercial and social interests of the citizens of the various States that telegraphic service and the charges, therefore, more vitally concern the welfare and prosperity of all classes than do the service and rates of the express companies."

Continuing, the petitioners say: "We believe your investigation of telegraph companies will disclose the fact that the people are now, and for a long time, have been deliberately deprived of the advantages, benefits and economies of low uniform service rates by systematized violations of the laws designed for their protection and betterment. That exorbitant rates for unimproved service have been maintained either by actual combination or by "gentlemen's agreements" and that strenuous efforts have been employed to prevent the introduction of cheap tolls, whether by competition or legislative measures seems obvious to your petitioners.

"Your attention is invited to the apparent purpose of the American Telegraph and Telephone Company to monopolize all facilities for wire communication to the destruction of competition and the possibility of low charges for the use of wire service. The rapidity with which formerly independent telephone companies are being absorbed and the efforts to induce those still left to enter into agreements for the maintenance of extortionate rates seem to us to admit of no other interpretation than that of combination for the 'restraint of trade' directed against independent and competing companies.

"If telegraphic service at the rate of one cent or less per word for any distance is a possibility of the modern telegraphic art, the public is entitled to that sort of service."

The petitioners declare their belief that "carefully deliberated efforts are being made by the telegraphic trust to prevent the progress of independent enterprises."

TRYING TO PREVENT LYNCHING.

Heavily Armed Posse Accompanying Negro Charged With Shooting.

Tampa, Fla., Nov. 11.—Somewhere between here and Dade City, a heavily armed posse in automobile is bringing Lee Armstead, a negro, charged with shooting yesterday two officers at Plant City, to Tampa. The officers are taking a circuitous route trying to outwit the mobs which are bent on lynching the prisoner.

ARRESTED ON BENCH WARRANT

Sensation at Whiteville Following Vindication of Edgar Thompson of Wife Poisoning—Stomach Analyzed by Chemist

(Special Star Telegram.)

Whiteville, N. C., Nov. 11.—There is a sensation here over the arrest this afternoon of Edgar Thompson for poisoning his wife, upon a bench warrant from Judge Carter upon the advice of Solicitor Sinclair. The stomach was sent by the wife's relatives Thursday to the State chemist but no analysis has been received here. The prisoner was carried to Lumberton today to appear before the judge. The arrest came as a surprise. Thompson made no protest when arrested. He had crepe on his hat. Notning definite as to the case is known here.

It will be recalled that at the behest of the relatives of Thompson's wife a week or ten days ago, the body of the woman was exhumed and a post mortem examination made for poison by three leading p hysicians of Columbus, who submitted a report to a coroner's jury, which had been empanelled, to the effect that no traces of poison were found as charged and that her death resulted from natural causes. It appears that the relatives of the wife were not satisfied with this disposition of the case and forwarded the stomach to the State chemist for analysis, at their own expense, the county commissioners having declined to do so at the public expense, after the report of the physicians who did the autopsy or post mortem.

(By Long Distance Telephone)

Lumberton, N. C., Nov. 11.—Solicitor Sinclair having left on the evening train for his home at Fayetteville, little could be learned here tonight in regard to the bench warrant issued for Mr. Edgar Thompson, of Whiteville, N. C. Judge Carter was interviewed, but merely stated that the warrant was issued on Tuesday by the solicitor upon representations of a gentleman who passed through town on his way to Raleigh with the stomach of the dead woman for analysis. So far as is known no report of the analysis has been received and it is believed that the bench warrant was issued for the arrest of Mr. Thompson, pending the report of the chemist.

PRESIDENT GENERAL ELECTED

Mrs. Alexander B White, of Tennessee, Next President General of Confederacy—Other Officers

Richmond, Va., Nov. 11.—On the second ballot in a contest marked by the greatest display of spirit and excitement, Mrs. Alexander B. White, of Tennessee, was today elected President General of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. Mrs. White defeated Mrs. Livingstone Rose Schuyler, of New York, after Mrs. James B. Gantt, of Missouri had withdrawn from the race.

Except for this action on the part of Mrs. Gantt, the voting might have continued indefinitely, for the lines were sharply drawn and friends of the various candidates were determined to stick. It required 935 votes to elect. On the first ballot Mrs. White received 808, Mrs. Schuyler 602, and Mrs. Gantt 459. Just as the convention was ready to proceed with the second ballot Mrs. Gantt arose and in an appropriate speech of thanks requested that her name be withdrawn. The second ballot resulted:

Mrs. White, 1,077, Mrs. Schuyler, 742.

The vote was by States and was cast by the State chairman. The returns as announced by the secretary provoked tremendous applause from the various factions and the cheering and excitement became so intense that the chair was forced to issue an order forbidding any demonstration. While Mrs. Schuyler was especially popular in the convention opposition to her election was based largely upon the fact that she resided in New York and not in one of the original Confederate States. But immediately on the announcement of the final vote and in the midst of a demonstration which was remarkable for a gathering of women, Mrs. Schuyler got the attention of the presiding officer and asked permission to escort the new President General to the platform. Standing by her side and facing the big audience, the defeated candidate made a speech which was so timely and courteous that the convention again broke forth into a storm of applause.

Election of minor officers was less exciting, the result being as follows: Mrs. Frank G. Odenheimer, Maryland, first vice president general; Mrs. Drewry C. Ludlow, of Washington, second vice president general; Mrs. J. J. McAlister, of Oklahoma, third vice president general; Mrs. Roy Weaks McKenney, Kentucky, recording secretary general; Mrs. Kate Childress Schanel, Louisiana, corresponding secretary general; Mrs. C. B. Tate, Virginia, treasurer general; Mrs. James B. Gantt, Missouri, registrar general; Miss Mildred Rutherford, Georgia, historian general; Mrs. L. H. Raines, Georgia, custodian of crosses of honor; Mrs. Frank Anthony Walke, Virginia, custodian flags and pennants.

While many questions were discussed and many reports submitted, the convention proceedings today related mainly to routine matters.

TOLLED THE BELLS.

Lorimer's Election Made Funereal Occasion in Illinois Town.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—How the bells of a church at Rockford, Ill., were made to toll 46 times to indicate the number of votes cast in favor of Senator William Lorimer's retaining his seat in the United States Senate, and how badges of black were distributed to those present and the meeting referred to as "Lorimer's funeral" was related before the Senatorial investigating committee today by Fred E. Sterling, editor of a newspaper at Rockford.

Senator Cullom, the witness said, also was criticised because of his support of Lorimer.

CYCLONIC STORMS IN FOUR STATES

Seven Deaths, Several Dying and a Score of Injured are Known.

LOSS OF MUCH PROPERTY

Southern Wisconsin, Eastern Iowa, Illinois and Missouri in Wake of Storm—Snow and Sleet Accompanies.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—Reports received tonight by the Associated Press, indicate the cyclonic storms coming between the abnormally warm period and the following cold wave, have caused death and widespread destruction in southern Wisconsin, eastern Iowa and in Illinois today.

Seven deaths, several dying and a score of injured are known to be lying in the wake of the storms, and suffering because of bitter cold and sleet, and snow already is being reported.

Southern Wisconsin was hardest hit according to early reports. Near Orfville five persons were killed and another is not expected to live.

In the village of Virginia, Ill., several were found seriously, perhaps fatally injured, and fifty others slightly injured.

In Iowa a 50-degree drop in temperature, accompanied by a driving storm of snow and sleet stopped traffic for many hours.

An electrical disturbance which ushered in the storm here, destroyed several feed wires in the city's electrical system and two men were injured.

Property loss mounted up rapidly in the path of the cyclonic blizzard. Nearly every public building in Virginia, Ill., was demolished, farmers' homes were wiped out in Wisconsin, and the damage was increased by the heavy downpour of rain, sleet and snow.

Later reports indicated that the dead in Rock county, Wis., alone would reach a dozen. Two deaths at Milton were reported to the train dispatcher's office of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad, but the wires were blown down before the report could be verified. Severe weather conditions are reported all the way from the Rocky Mountains. In Chicago the wind blew 44 miles an hour and in Yellowstone Park and at Helena the thermometer registered eight degrees below zero.

Three Killed at Virginia, Ill.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 11.—It is reported that late this afternoon a cyclone struck Virginia, Ill., and great havoc was wrought. Three are reported to have been killed when the Methodist church, where many persons took refuge, was demolished.

The principal buildings in the business district of Virginia were demolished by the cyclone and the injured number 50. Among the buildings reported demolished are the opera house, city hall, two hotels, the Catholic church and the Methodist church.

Tornado at Rossville, Ill.

Danville, Ill., Nov. 11.—A storm accompanied by much lightning that swept over Vermilion county this evening developed into a tornado at Rossville, where much damage was done. At the Elgin, Joliet & Eastern Railroad round house, several small buildings were blown down and the coal chutes were blown across the track.

At Springfield, Mo.

Springfield, Mo., Nov. 11.—A tornado swept over Springfield late today wrecking a number of residences and injuring a score of persons. Earl Prescott was fatally hurt in the collapse of a barn.

Wisconsin Loss.

Janesville, Wis., Nov. 11.—At least seven lives were lost and scores of persons injured, some fatally, in a tornado which swept this State tonight. Hundreds of thousands of dollars of damage was done.

Tonight dozens of families sought shelter in small structures out of the path of the storm. Others found themselves without a roof and because the flooded roads made travel impossible, were forced to pass the night in the open fields.

Measures for the relief of Orfordville, Hanover, Milton Junction and Milton have been instituted by Janesville and Juliet, but much suffering necessarily must ensue.

A cold wave followed the storm and sleet and snow added to the misery.

At Orfordville Mrs. John Clowder, 80 years old, was killed, as were also a father and two daughters of a family whose surname is Smith, and a Mrs. Broede. At Milton one person, as yet unidentified, is reported dead. Amy Korban, eight years old, was killed when her home just north of Janesville, was demolished.

Footville, Magnolia, Pewaukee and other villages also are reported to have suffered severely.

At Davenport, Iowa.

Davenport, Ia., Nov. 11.—A cyclone struck west of Davenport this afternoon, causing great property loss. No one was reported seriously injured.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—Suspicion was lifted from Undertaker C. C. Boysen and Dr. L. L. Hertell today by Coroner Hoffman when he examined them as to their knowledge of the deaths of ten persons who have died beneath the roof of Mrs. Louise Vermilya, now ill and under arrest charged with the murder of Policeman Arthur Bissonette.

FOOTBALL GAMES FOUGHT YESTERDAY

Results Recorded of the Fights Between the Various Elevens.

A. & M. IS VICTORIOUS

Princeton Defeats Dartmouth—Yale A Winner from Brown—Results From Many Gridirons Saturday—On Rampage

Princeton, Nov. 11.—Luck sure and simple decreed that Princeton should beat Dartmouth in football this afternoon and so the official score will go down in history as a 3 to 0 victory for the Orange and Black.

The play that won the game will long be remembered as one of the freaks of football and will give the rules committee something to work on this Winter, for Princeton's points were scored by a freak drop kick from DeWitt's toe on the 47-yard line. The ball did not rise more than ten feet at the start and after bounding twice along the line took a freakish bounce in front of the goal post and cleared the cross bar. Referee Langford decreed that a field goal had been made.

Aside from this piece of luck the two teams were evenly matched. The visitors gained more first downs by rushing than Princeton and had it not been for several long dashes by Pendleton, Baker and Sawyer, the Orange and Black would have been on the defensive most of the time.

Harvard Defeated

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 11.—The Carlisle Indians continued their rampage among the college football elevens of the East today, defeating Harvard by the score of 18 to 15. The Red Skins' quiver was full of arrows which found their mark. Principal among these was the doughty right toe of Thorpe, the Indian's left half back, who scored 12 out of Carlisle's points on goals from placements. Three of these goals were revelations to the great crowd, two being from the 37-yard line and a third from the 48-yard mark. Thorpe, too, was the pivot of the Indians' rushing attack, bearing the brunt of the battle until he was knocked out in the last period. Harvard played a second team for the first three periods. The regulars went in for the final period but could not prevent Thorpe from scoring through kicks.

Reynolds ran fifty yards for Harvard's first touchdown in the second period.

Pennsylvania Prevents Fourth Defeat

Philadelphia, Nov. 11.—Pennsylvania, after three straight defeats, displayed some of her old-time form today and defeated LaFayette College by the score of 23 to 6. While the Red and Blue team showed almost a complete reversal of form, it was not so much her powerful attack that helped to roll up the 23 points as it was some of LaFayette's erratic playing.

Much of the success of Pennsylvania's play was due to the fine work of Captain Mercer, who repeatedly smashed through LaFayette's line for large gains and was almost irresistible in running the ball around the ends.

Cornell Wins Over Michigan

Ithaca, N. Y., Nov. 11.—Straight football was knocked to the four winds today in the greatest inter-sectional game of the year between Cornell and Michigan, the Eastern college winning out 6 to 0. The game furnished the finest exhibition of bunting ever seen here. Forward passes did not work at all. Michigan tried four but lost on every trial. The punting of Butler and O'Connor, for Cornell, gained about ten yards on every exchange with Michigan and it was probably to that form of play that the victory was made.

Georgia Techs Surprise Enthusiasts

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 11.—The Georgia Tech football eleven surprised local enthusiasts today when they triumphed over the University of theSouth team of Sewanee by a score of 23 to 0. The Tennessee squad was clearly outclassed from the outset and the long punts of Gillum, Sewanee's end, alone kept the score from being greater.

Vanderbilt Game

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 11.—Vanderbilt won a strenuous game from Kentucky State here this afternoon by the score of 18 to 0. Although Vanderbilt's goal was never in danger, it was with the utmost difficulty that the locals were able to do their scoring. The Kentucky boys had a powerful defense and time and again held the Commodores for down near the goal lines. The grounds were exceedingly slippery. Vanderbilt's first touchdown came in six minutes after play and started on a forward pass from Robins to E. Brown, who ran 20 yards for a touchdown. In the third period, Vanderbilt rushed the ball to Kentucky's seven-yard line from which Ray Morrison skirted the end for Vanderbilt's second touchdown. Zack Curtain, the man who made Vanderbilt's first throw points at Michigan by a drop kick, kicked two field goals out of two attempts.

The A. & M. Game

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 11.—In one of the most hotly contested games of football ever seen on an A. & M. gridiron, and one whose result has a direct bearing on the South Atlantic championship, was won today by the Tar Heel Techs from the heavy, fast and aggressive team of Washington and Lee University, of Virginia, by a score of 15 to 3.

Both A. & M. touchdowns came in the first half, one in each quarter, and both were made on forward passes, the first by Seifert, and the second by Robertson. Both goals were kicked by Hurtt. In the latter part of the fourth quarter Hatsell booted a beautiful field goal over the bar from the 30-yard line.

In the first quarter, A. & M. ran away with Washington & Lee, their march down the field being stopped only twice. On a beautifully executed forward pass to Seifert, a touchdown was secured.

Washington and Lee took a brace in the second quarter, and once held A. & M. for downs. The second touchdown was made on a forward pass to Robertson, after a series of line plays, end runs and a successful forward pass had placed the ball on the Washington and Lee 10-yard line.

There was no scoring in the third quarter, Washington and Lee showing a wonderful spurt, the playing of Miller being brilliant. An attempt by Washington and Lee for a field goal from the 36-yard line failed.

In the fourth quarter the playing was near the center of the field, most of the time, but towards the latter part of the period Washington and Lee invaded A. & M. territory and managed to get a field goal over the bar.

The two teams were nearly matched as to weight, the advantage as to weight being with A. & M. about five pounds per man.

The forward passes of A. & M. and the two successful onside kicks out of three attempts by A. & M., were special features of the contest, as was also the determined way in which Washington and Lee fought a losing game. Great work was done by every man on the Red and White team, but the brilliant work of Floyd, Hartsell, Stafford and Seifert was especially noticeable.

The Virginians fought hard from the very beginning, but never seriously threatened A. & M.'s goal line throughout the contest. Washington and Lee stars were: Miller, Raferty, Malcolm, Beuhring, Slater and Miles.

Summary: Time of quarters, 12 minutes; referee, Giss, of Lehigh; umpire, Jackson, of Baltimore City College; field judge, Poague, of V. M. I.; head linesman, Kingsloving, of V. M. I.; Penalties, A. & M., 50 yards; Washington and Lee, 25 yards; attendance, 1,400.

Army Eleven Defeats Pennsylvania

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 11.—In their first game with Bucknell since 1899, the Army eleven defeated the Pennsylvania today by a score of 20 to 2, but the visitors, although outclassed, had the honor of being the first team to score on the cadets this season, marring the clean slate which the Army players had hoped to retain until they faced the Navy.

All of the Army's points were made in the first two periods when it seemed only a question of how large a total they would roll up. In the second and third periods, however, the Bucknell men more than held their own, after the Army had substituted all but one regular man.

West Virginia Outclased

Annapolis, Nov. 11.—While a number of officers and midshipmen from the German Cadetship Hansa, who were visitors to the Naval Academy today looked on and to all appearances thoroughly enjoyed the game, Navy's eleven this afternoon defeated University of West Virginia by a score of 32 to 0. The German visitors occupied seats in the Academy stands.

The West Virginians were completely outclassed, making but two first downs during the game.

Presbyterians and Baptists.

Greensboro, N. C., Nov. 11.—Davidson won from Wake Forest 9 to 0 in a slow and uninteresting game here today, the only feature being the splendid work of Booe. Davidson scored in the first quarter, Booe carrying the ball over the goal line and kicking goal twice during the game. He skirted the ends for long runs, and a touchdown, though on each occasion the ball was brought back because of a penalty. In the last quarter Booe kicked a placement goal from the 28-yard line.

Carolina vs. Carolina.

Chapel Hill, N. C., Nov. 11.—The Tar Heels had an easy time with the Palmetto boys today, defeating them by a score of 21 to 0. The South Carolina team was clearly outclassed by their slightly heavier opponents and not during the entire game was the Tar Heel goal in danger. During the latter part of the game North Carolina sent in almost a new team, using nearly every scrub. In the first quarter North Carolina punted often for leg gains, Coffin outpunting the South Carolina kicker every time. In the second quarter North Carolina punted to their opponents 15-yard line where the ball was recovered by Abernathy. Tillett then smashed the South Carolina line for a touchdown. Tillett kicked an easy goal. Chambers circled South Carolina ends for long gains time after time, bringing the ball up to the South Carolina 20-yard line, Wakeley going around for a second touch-down. Tillett again kicked goal. In the second quarter the ball was always in South Carolina territory. In the third quarter North Carolina executed a beautiful pass, Coffin to Chambers, which placed the ball on the Palmetto's one-yard line. Tillett again smashed the South Carolina line for a touch-down. Tillett kicked goal. The only score in the fourth quarter was when after consistent line punting by North Carolina the ball was placed on the South Carolina 30-yard line. "Burr" Edwards kicked a field goal. For the Tar Heels Tillett, Small, Chambers and Orr played great ball, while the visitors' stars were Williams, Hill, and Passailique.

Yale Victorious.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 11.—Yale had taken last year's whipping so much to heart that Brown could not teach her anything in the game on Yale field this afternoon. The blues' 15 points to a blank for Brown, were accumulated with many evidences of ease. Camp made the only touchdown from which Francis kicked goal. Capt. Howe made two goals from the field and Francis had most excellent luck with a placement from the 34-yard line.

On the other hand, Brown did not threaten the Yale goal, although Sprackling once tried a long distance field goal, which fell into Howe's arms 15 yards in front of the posts. Occasionally the Brown men formed themselves into a compact wall and once, with a single yard between Yale and a touchdown, forced a surrender of the ball. Yale's tackling was hard and sure, the interference perfect, and she showed a line that withstood penetration while the ends were too speedy for Sprackling to get under headway when receiving Howe's many punts.

Chicago's Game.

OLD CASE REVIVED

Motion to Set Aside Decree Issued Twenty Years Ago

Asheville, N. C., Nov. 11.—Dating back to the year 1795, when Prince Marshall Tallyrand DePerigord visited this country, interested himself in land embracing $6,000 acres in Madison and Haywood counties, this state, the celebrated case of Eben Horsford, et al., versus J. Jackson Gudger, et al., was revived today in the United States District Court when Judge James E. Boyd heard a motion to set aside a decree of the United States Supreme Court issued 20 years ago.

The evidence introduced today bore historical value, in that they set forth that sometime to 1794 North Carolina granted Stockley Donelson, a Scotchman, 60,000 acres of land in what is now eastern Tennessee. Subsequently, the land was conveyed to John Love, who in turn, passed it on two Frenchmen named Gelstonne and L'Hommedieu. Their plans of development attracted the attention of Tallyrand who came to the United States in 1794 and he invested with his two companions. Tallyrand returned to France in 1795 and it is stated that the estate went from bad to worse after the deaths of Gelstonne and L'Hemmedieu. The titles to the land became clouded through years of litigation, which finally reached the Supreme Court of the United States when a court decree which apparently divided up the lands amongst the rightful heirs.

The question now at issue is whether or not the Supreme Court's decree covered the entire acreage or only half thereof.

The Horsford figuring in the case was formerly a professor in Harvard College and Mr. Gudger is the father of Representative Gudger, of this district.

Petersburg, Va., Nov. 11.—Union veterans of the war between the States, who arrived in Petersburg tonight for the dedication Monday of the Massachusetts monument at the Crater battleground, marched tonight with veterans of the Confederacy with the Confederate Stars and Bars and the Virginia State flag the only colors flown. The Massachusetts veterans, sons of veterans and the governor's party, consisting of 53, including the Massachusetts monument commission, were welcomed to the State of Virginia at the border near Washington this morning by Major George C. Round, of Manassas, Va., representing Governor Mann.

Hill Camp Hall tonight, where the blue and the gray mingled, welcome to the city was given by Mayor George Cameron and a welcome on behalf of the Confederate veterans by Past Commander George S. NEGRO LANDED IN JAIL

Sensational Man Hunt in Florida Is Ended—No Violence

Tampa, Fla., Nov. 11.—Lee Armistead, the negro who yesterday shot two officers at Plant City and was chased over 30 miles by posses, was captured six miles from Dade City today and was landed safely in jail here tonight.

Sheriff Sturkey, of Pasco county, accompanied by two deputies, made the trip to Tarpon Springs in a automobile and when the machine struck an impassable place in the road the officers took their prisoner and walked back, getting another automobile with which they completed the trip to Tampa. None of the posses supposed to be in waiting, were encountered, the officers making a wide tour to escape them. Both of the men shot by Armistead, it is believed, will recover.

GOMPERS ARRIVES

Convention of American Federation of Labor in Atlanta Next Week

Atlant, Ga., Nov. 11.—New life was put into the preliminary preparations for the convention of the American Federation of Labor, which meets here Monday, by the arrival tonight of President Samuel Gompers and the other members of the National Council.

This year's convention will be no "pink tea party," according to Mr. Gompers. Several questions of National importance are scheduled to come before the organization and there is a greater mass of detail work to be disposed of than ever before in the history of the federation.

One of the first things the National officers did on reaching the city was to approve the action of the metal trades' department in taking up the fight against the "Taylor efficiency system," which has been adopted by the Federal government in some of its departments. "The Taylor system tends to make the workmen a mere machine," declared Mr. Gompers, "and the fight against it will be taken up on the floor of the convention next week."

Mr. Gompers when asked about the antagonism to himself as head of the federation by the Socialist members of the federation, smiles and said he always was ready to discuss the American Federation, but that he had nothing to say about Socialism or its members.

The metal trades' department closed its sessions today by re-electing all the old officers for another year. A resolution was adopted condemning the Taylor efficiency system and calling upon the federation to ratify the action.

FIRE AT FAYETTEVILLE

Wooden Ware Company Damaged to Extent of $8,000—Insurance

Fayetteville, N. C., Nov. 11.—Damage to the extent of $8,000 with about half insurance, resulted this morning before day to the plant of the Fayetteville Wooden Ware Company, south of Mumford street. A brick dry house and a brick warehouse were the structures damaged and in the former were 150 sections of juniper and oak staves, ready for manufacture into tubs and buckets. The origin of the fire is unknown. A number of men are temporarily thrown out of employment but the burned structures will be replaced in about 30 days.

FATAL STREET CAR ACCIDENT.

One Man Killed, Fourteen Injured by Wild Street Car.

Winston-Salem, N. C., Nov. 11.—Frank Snyder, of this city, was instantly killed and 14 others were injured, several fatally hurt, today when a street car became unmanageable and ran wild down a steep hill. At the foot of the hill the car crashed into an ice wagon, killing the horses and injuring the driver. Continuing its mad career, the runaway trolley ran into another car standing on a switch. The car was overturned, pinning the victims beneath the wreckage. The accident was caused, it is said, by the car skidding on slippery rails at the top of the hill.

The Advantage of Greensboro

WHEN I am asked why a patient should come to the Keeley Institute at Greensboro, I cannot help pointing out the manifest advantage of its location. For you know North Carolina has long been famous as a winter resort. And the season has gradually lengthened until many of the best hotels keep open all the year round.

Now Greensboro has the same altitude, climate and beautiful country as the other North Carolina health resorts—and is unusually accessible besides. Only a few hours ride from all the large cities of the South, East and Middle West, it is a railway center with more than 50 trains a day, several of them fast through trains.

Then again, everything about the Institute is calculated to make a man forget that he is a patient.

You can indulge in riding, driving, motoring, golfing or any other out-door recreation. And you find the Institute itself as homelike and comfortable as any hotel at which you ever stayed. The whole purpose and aim of our management and attendants is to make a patient's stay as pleasant and comfortable as possible. I have laid the greatest emphasis on this phase of our treatment in all the eighteen years I have been president of the Institute.

Whatever your interest in the Keeley Treatment—whether for your self or someone else—write us. We will treat your letter with strictest confidence.

Wilmington Man Who Would Own a City—Fleming Divorce Suit—Progress of Hookworm Campaign.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 11.—State officers have received letters from a Wilmingtonian signing himself Fred McKenzie, 208 McRae street, in which he asks aid in the recovery of the land on which the city of Wilmington is situated. He claims that in the colonial period of the settlement of that section his ancestors, Moses Davis and Lucy Davis, held, through William S. Campbell, the land in question, and that the title has never rightfully passed from his people.

There was a charter issued today for the Exalted Council of Benjamin, of the city of Asheville. The charter provides that the Asheville lodge shall be the grand lodge for North Carolina and subordinate lodges shall be formed in other localities. The purpose is the care of widows and orphans and general charitable effort. W. T. Conley, L. V. Watson and J. H. McGinnis are among the incorporators.

Beaufort and Bertie counties join the ranks of those counties making appropriation for the free dispensary treatment for hookworm disease. This makes 23 counties that have provided this free treatment for infected citizens, children and adults.

It has been definitely settled now that the noted Fleming divorce suit, the case by Mrs. Nelle Claire Fleming against her husband, Percy B. Fleming, and the counter suit of Percy B. Fleming against Mrs. Nelle Claire Fleming, will be threshed out in the Wake Superior Court at the February term. Mrs. Fleming's case was to have been argued before Judge Peebles this week, but to save time and prevent delay in the final adjudication a demurrer to Mrs. Fleming's pleading was withdrawn by counsel for Mr. Fleming so that the fixing of the final hearing for the February term was the result.

This afternoon out at the Raleigh Country Club there is in progress a big barbecue and brunswick stew by the members of the Raleigh Bar Association who are club men to the Federal and State judiciary, the members of the Corporation Commission, the State officers. The first passenger car to pass over the new Country Club street car extension, three miles long, was run out to the club to carry the Raleigh lawyers and their guests.

D. W. Connor. It will be preceded by an invocation by Rev. Plato Durham; remarks on the movement for providing the bust, by Hon. Francis Winston; presentation of the bust by Gen. B. S. Royster, and acceptance for the Grand Lodge by Grand Master R. N. Hackett. Following the address by Mr. Connor the bust will be presented to the State by Col. J. Bryan Grimes, of the Historical Commission, and the acceptance will be by Governor Kitchin. The bust is completed, ready for installation in its niche. It is the work of W. F. Ruckstuhl, who carved the busts of W. A. Graham and M. W. Ransom, that now occupy a niche each in the rotunda.

THE ARRINGTON CASE.

Lawyer Hater in Raleigh Gets Her Appeal to Court.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 11.—"Will some lawyer in this bar be kind enough to certify to the Supreme Court that I have made a mistake in the construction of the law for Mrs. Pattie D. B. Arrington so that she can appeal from my ruling dismissing her suits on demurrer of the defendants," was a remarkable request made by Judge R. B. Peebles in Wake Superior Court this morning. Mrs. Arrington, one of the most noted litigants and most pronounced lawyer-haters in the whole country, was in the bar ready to "speak her mind," as to the court and lawyers in general again should her new suits for the recovery of the Raleigh city block she insists she was cheated out of many years ago, be forced out of court through Judge Peeble's ruling and the lack of a lawyer to make the certification to the Supreme Court. There was a silence for a few moments following Judge Peeble's question. Then B. C. Beckwith arose and declared that if the court really desired that this be done and requested it, he would join some other lawyer in such a certification, although he knew nothing of the real merits of the issue at bar. Mr. Bart Gatling said he would join Mr. Beckwith in the certification. A wave of relief suffused court and bar when it was clear that there was escape from impending castigation at which the plaintiff at the bar is an experienced adept. Mrs. Arrington spoke up to say that she wanted it understood that she was not begging anyone to do this thing. However, the court requested it and the certification was made perfecting the appeal. The members of the bar declare that the action of Mr. Beckwith in coming to the aid of the court is all the more commendable in view of the fact that it was he who was called by the court Thursday to pay a fine of $5 for advancing into the court room without removing his hat.

Col. Fred A. Olds, secretary of the Raleigh Chamber of Commerce, is just back from New York where he attended the Land and Immigration Show in progress in Madison Square Garden the past ten days. He says North Carolina was quite well represented, especially through the exhibits of the Norfolk Southern and the Southern Railways, the exhibits of the Norfolk Southern being entirely devoted to North Carolina resources and progress. The colonel says he felt quite proud of his State and that he had opportunity to put in a good amount of advertising for the State and especially for Raleigh and the Raleigh section in which he was especially interested for the Raleigh Chamber of Commerce.

MacVEAGH EN- -SES

Speaks in Chicago in Favor of Aldrich Plan of Currency

Chicago, Nov. 11. — Franklin MacVeagh, Secretary of the Treasury, in an address here tonight before the Western Economic Society, gave his endorsement to the plan of currency reform which has been suggested to the National Monetary Commission by former Senator Nelson W. Aldrich. Mr. MacVeagh declared, however, that he believed the plan would be received with prejudice in Congress unless it contained some provision to prevent banks from controlling stocks in others.

"I believe the holding of shares in another bank, by a bank which is a member of the National Reserve Association should be prohibited," he said. "This should be made to apply not only to the corporate action of the bank but to action by any substitute method accomplishing the same purpose. I feel sure that American conditions are permanently opposed to any semblance of branch banking and to any concentration of bank ownership or control.

"I feel that the proposed new monetary system will be prejudiced in Congress and in the public mind unless provision is made against this ownership of bank stock. In my opinion this should be dealt with in the Monetary Commission's report. Otherwise I am sure Congress will deal with it on its own initiative."

Secretary MacVeagh observed that the work of preparing a tentative plan had been marked by an absence of quibbling and a unanimity of purpose, but he said he believed Congress must be impressed with the public demand for immediate action.

"If we go to our representatives without an uncompromising belief in the urgency of the legislation, we simply invite further delay and postponement. This Winter's session will have other important things before it and Congress will be seriously engaged, barring of course, the paralyzing effect of the shadow of the coming election, so that monetary legislation may not have the right of way," he said.

"We have lived without this reform, but that merely means we have been strong enough to endure. And we can still live with the threat of panics hanging over us; but why should we? Why shouldn't Congress give us relief? As long as we have the present banking and currency system we shall have panics, and no longer. Does not this alone create a state of emergency? Why should it take another wasteful and degrading panic to impress Congress?

"Why cannot 1907—from which the people are still recovering—suffice? There are many other things of prime importance to be secured through currency reform, but if nothing more than emancipation from panics were secured, there would be an abundance of imperative reasons for immediate action by Congress.

"The National Reserve Association is proposed for the benefit of the people. This is a people's and not a government's measure. And it is as a people's movement that it can secure legislation of the right sort at once.

"This plan as it stands, or will stand when presented to Congress, may be called the deliberate, seasoned and experienced work not only of the Monetary Commission but of the Nation itself. Many contributed to it, studying all the appropriate knowledge of the world even before the chairman organized his celebrated tentative proposal. And then, Mr. Aldrich with remarkable practical wisdom placed his tentative plan before the people inviting consideration and amendment.

"As the plan stands today, it is a wonderfully good one. It provides almost conclusively all the banking facilities that the business of the country needs and lacks, and it protects itself nearly or quite conclusively from all the dangers that everyone has so far apprehended.

"Some think the Reserve Association a centralizing proposition, and that it is proposed to organize an institution for the centralization of the banking power. That is an error, of course. Neither the purpose nor the effect is centralization. The purpose and effect is simply organization for all sorts of times and against all sorts of emergencies and exigencies."

Mr. MacVeagh said that despite his cordial opinion of the Aldrich plan as it now stands, there were some important features to be considered. One of those, as he explained, was a provision to prevent control by stockholding. Another, he said, was that to National banks should be given the same advantage to conduct a trust company business as is enjoyed by concerns under State charters. He declared that unless the National banks had the same money making advantages as State banks enjoy, they could not hope to survive.

Secretary MacVeagh closed his address with a plea that the monetary question be kept entirely out of politics. It is purely a business question, he said, and has no place in political economics. He declared it would be unwise politics for any political party or faction to embarrass it by making a partisan issue.

SOUTHPORT MAKING PLANS

Enthusiastic Meeting Last Night of Central Committee—Senators Simmons and Overman to Speak at Celebration.

(By Long Distance Telephone.)

Southport, N. C.,—All Southport is working industriously for the big celebration to be held Thursday, November 23rd, to mark the entrance into the town of the first passenger train, which will enter over the Wilmington, Brunswick & Southern Railroad, which is now complete.

An enthusiastic meeting of the central committee was held tonight and all sub-committees made reports, showing that splendid progress is being made in arranging the details for the big event. President Z. W. Whitehead, of the W., B. & S. railroad, was present and announced that the road has been lined up and surfaced to the point of its terminal at the foot of Rhett street. He said that everything is in readiness for a daily schedule, but will wait until the 23rd of November to put on regular trains.

The revenue cutter Seminole has been placed at the disposition of the committee by the Secretary of the Treasury, and Capt. Berry and his officers will do all in their power to let the visitors see this splendid harbor. Both Senators have asked the government for two naval vessels each and Fort Caswell will help to make the day a success.

There will be addresses by Senator F. M. Simmons and Senator Lee S. Overman and other prominent men of North Carolina and other States. Among the features besides the speaking will be a big parade around the harbor of motor boats, field sports and an opportunity to every one to visit Fort Caswell. There will be an old fashioned barbecue and basket picnic in Live Oak grove.

Prominent men from every section of the State will be present and join in the celebration, which will be the biggest event of the kind ever held in this section of the State.

GUILFORD TEACHERS.

Second Session of Year—Motor Police Patrol for Greensboro.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Greensboro, N. C., Nov. 11.—The Guilford County Teacherds Association held its second session of the year in the court house this morning and it was attended by about 150 members. Superintendent Foust presided and many short, though very enthusiastic and helpful talks were made during the period for open discussion. Features of the session were addresses by Prof. Mathewson, of the Normal College, and Health Superintendent Ross, both urging the co-operation of the teacher with the county health department. Mrs. T. N. Sellars, of the Arnfield school, gave a lecture with demonstrations, showing what can be done with the younger children by means of the phonic system.

Now that the motor police patrol has arrived the city commissioners have begun negotiations for two motor hose wagons for the city fire department and it is said estimates will be received by the commission within a few days. There is a strong sentiment here in favor of this more modern fire equipment, Public Safety Commissioner Brown being one of the staunchest advocates.

Sometimes a single man doubles his fortune.

An odd sight would be a new woman dressed up in old clothes.

The South is a bull in the cotton market and a bull in the chinashop on production.

The present popularity of the fuzzy fedora, fully justifies our ancestors in wearing coon-skin caps.

An Illinois woman has been fined $5 and the damages to the amount of $50 for throwing a stone at a hen. The hen did not suffer any damage, but the stone hit a merchant's show case and smashed it.

Every man wants you to be conservative when your action threatens to remedy something radically wrong in which he is especially interested. Let everybody doing wrong let go of the public's umbilicus and there will be less howling.

As usual, President Taft put his foot in it again last Tuesday. He went to Cincinnati and voted the Republican ticket with Boss Cox. He was on the losing side just as he will be next November. The President ought to know enough by this time to quit being a Jonah.

President Taft denounced Boss Cox, of Cincinnati. In the election in Cincinnati on Tuesday, as a citizen of that city, the President could have voted for the overthrow of Boss Cox. Instead of that he voted with the Boss Cox crowd. Talk is all there is to some people's pretensions.

Mrs. Blankenburg, wife of the reform mayor who has just been elected Mayor of Philadelphia, says: "We propose to give the city a good administration." The Blankenbergs must be a very congenial couple since it is quite evident that they are going to co-operate in running Philadelphia.

From March till November there is good grazing for cattle throughout eastern North Carolina, and we have all around us cotton oil mills which manufacture cotton seed meal and hulls for cattle feed. Yet we continue to eat butterine and oleomargerine shipped to North Carolina by the ton.

Says the Charlotte Observer: "What is needed in Charlotte is the commission form of government for the city." The new plan of government is needed in any city for the reason that it may be better and certainly cannot be worse than the municipal government which has been inherited from ward politics.

The voters in New York, Ohio and Maryland took advantage of an off year in politics to swat machine politics. The political boss, whether he is a Democrat or a Republican, may as well pack his trunk. Whenever the people get ready to get rid of him they are going to do it. Every time any kind of a political boss gets it in the jaw, it makes politics more respectable.

Since they gathered their crops some of the farmers have been hauling hay here and selling it at 65 cents per 100 pounds. We asked a merchant here the other day what the Western hay was bringing on the local market. "From $1.50 to $1.60 per 100," said he. Some of this Western hay is no better if as good as hay raised here in Lee county, yet it is now selling in Sanford at almost three times as much. In all probability some of the farmers who are now selling their hay at 65 cents per 100 will be paying from $1.50 to $2 for the Western product next Spring. Economy! Anything else but economy.—Sanford Express.

THE SOUTH FOOLING ITSELF

Talking about "The South Realizing Itself," it will begin to do so when it gives up the single-barrel idea that it can become either independent or prosperous by growing only one crop—as beautiful as cotton is. The fleecy staple has fleeced the South so often it should not be necessary for us to again be yelling about producing cotton below cost.

All these lusty calls upon the financiers and business men on account of the stress of low price cotton, and the renewed agitation for cotton storage warehouses, to keep cotton off the market when the price is less than it costs to produce it, ought to be a warning to us that our farming policy is radically wrong. We should quit planting only one crop, when we know of old that all the financial centres of the world are gambling on whether we are going to produce a small or a large crop.

Growing cotton is a gamble on the part of the farmer, as much so as it is on the part of the speculator, and it is the supremest folly, demonstrated over and over again, for the South to depend on one crop which makes us well to do or bankrupt at one flip of the dice. When the bulls have the cards running in their favor, occasionally the cotton growers win, but when the bears take in the pot it puts them "on the hog." Experience has taught us that the bears win more often than the bulls, for all the purchasing world is on the bear side for the reason that it wants its cotton cheap. The big stake of the buyers is always on low prices and nothing but a short crop tips the balance against them. When the prosperity of a country depends on "turning jack," the chances are against it, and that is exactly the chance that the South has in planting 35,000,000 acres in cotton and very few acres in anything else.

Build warehouses? Warehouses might or might not help the situation, and even that is a gamble. We might store 3,000,000 bales to keep them off the market, while there would be nothing to prevent our adding another 14,000,000 crop to it, with the result that we would face the next season's market with 17,000,000 bales in sight. Everybody knows what that means, so it isn't any use to say anything about 5 or 6 cents cotton. We ought to have cotton warehouses all right so they can figure in our banking business, but instead of warehouses for storing cotton, to take chances on keeping up prices, we would prefer to see the money spent in establishing dairies and building packing houses and grain mills.

There will be no lasting prosperity in the South till we diversify our agricultural operations. Precarious is that prosperity which depends upon one crop that today may enable us to live comfortably and tomorrow might make us subjects for the poor house. The South will experience no prosperity and independence like that which will come to us when we produce our own bread, make our own butter, and live on our own pork, beef and mutton. The Star is for one dairy instead of the warehouses; for the cattle ranch, for the stock farm, for the sheep fold, for the hay barn, for the potato hill, for the molasses mill, for the cow, and for the churn. These will put 8-cent cotton out of business. We will take them while you may take the cotton warehouses where values will be locked up for a rise in the market, but more likely for a fall.

Build plenty of cotton warehouses, but don't let us bank on warehouses and plant 35,000,000 acres in cotton, with the expectation that the banks of this country can tie up their assets in warehoused cotton. It will cost millions of dollars to build cotton warehouses in eleven cotton States, whereas the money so spent would buy enough cattle and establish a sufficient number of dairies to enable us to keep from forgetting how home-made butter tastes. We ought to supply our near eastern markets, like New York, with beef, mutton and pork, instead of depending ourselves on the West. We haven't seen any good butter in so long a time that we are getting tired living in an exclusively cotton country.

Let the South diversify its agriculture and curtail its cotton production, and it won't have to invest still more money in cotton by building storage warehouses. We ought to make our living first and talk cotton warehouses afterwards. Bats finally would roost in the warehouses if we would stuff them full of cotton and go on increasing the cotton crop. More acreage in cotton would call for more warehouses, and we would go busted raising cotton and building warehouses. The Star is for diversified farming every time.

Instead of realizing itself, the South is fooling itself if it thinks building warehouses and planting 14,000,000-bale crops is going to cut much ice in making the South's cotton crop bring 15 cents a pound.

EXPERIMENTAL COLONIES.

In the World's Work for November, Mr. John L. Cowan gives an interesting account of what is called "an experimental colony," a plan adopted to settle home seekers in Southern California. Mr. Cowan's account concerns the San Ysidro Colony, which is near the Mexican boundary line.

The colonists are called the "Little Landers" and they live in the village of San Ysidro, within easy walking distance of their little farms, all embraced in 400 acres of land. In the colony there are 40 families, comprising 140 men, women and children, each being allotted from a quarter of an acre to seven acres each, the average being two and a quarter acres. Intensive farming is the plan and market gardening is the specialty. The promoters have an expert to teach the farmers. Mr. Cowan writes that the colonists who have been established six months or more are making a living on their tiny farms, "most of them making a better living than many a farmer of the East and Middle West with 160 acres, or twice that.

The experimental colony was founded by William E. Smythe, a well known author and newspaper man, who is himself a member of the colony. A corporation is promoting the colony and its president is George P. Hall, formerly president of the California State Horticultural Society. President Hall has taken great interest in the colony and through his lead the colony has a beautiful park. Another resident is Prof. H. Heath Baldwin, formerly of Vassar College, who is working and using his scientific knowledge to "show the possibilities that lie unsuspected and undeveloped in an acre of land." Mr. Cowan thus writes of Prof. Baldwin's plan:

"He aims to develop a one-acre garden to the utmost possible limit of productivity. He is studying the requirements of each of the important garden vegetables in the way of light, heat, moisture, and chemical constituents of the soil. He aims at vegetable perfection, and thinks it practicable to produce better vegetables and more of them than any one has ever produced before. When he has finished his experiments he will, as far as possible, reduce the practice of the Little Landers to a series of mathematical formulae, so that any one may know just what and how to grow the best vegetables in the largest possible quantieties."

This is a unique plan, but it will teach people what they can do on one acre or more of land when it is intelligently farmed.

TAFT THE PARTISAN.

Cincinnati overthrew Boss Cox and his Republican machine, but President Taft didn't have a hand in it, even after condemning it. He could have strengthened himself in the eyes of the country had he gone to Cincinnati and voted for the overthrow of the corrupt political machine. He was too much of a partisan to vote right, and so it was good that he lost his vote and lost friends among many good Republicans in his city.

At Akron, Ohio, some time ago, President Taft denounced Cox and his Cincinnati machine. When he voted last Tuesday he voted with Cox for the Cox crowd. He could have done better, for independent Republicans appealed to him, before the election, to aid in putting an end to the Cox rule. On the Saturday before the election, while he was in Washington and getting ready to go to Cincinnati to put his foot in it, as usual, President Taft received a telegraphic message from twelve prominent Cincinnati Republicans protesting against his endorsement of the Cincinnati ticket.

The President had previously endorsed the machine in a letter to former Mayor Julius Fleischmann. He wrote that city politician that he would vote for the Republican municipal ticket if he were permitted to vote. Of course, he was permitted to do so, and he voted on the losing side, with thousands of Republicans voting against him. The telegraphic message which the President received before going to Cincinnati, read as follows:

"We, independent Republicans, who have always been your sincere friends and supporters, believe that you have been misinformed as to the facts, and we do not agree with Mr. Fleischmann that conditions have materially changed since your famous Akron speech. On the contrary, the same political leaders whom you denounced then are still in control of the Republican organization."

Evidently, President Taft has done himself harm in the eyes of a large number of Cincinnati Republicans, not to mention the country at large.

Mrs. Julia Walsh, the noted Kentucky horsewoman, is confident that a horse is intelligent. She declares: "Of course a horse thinks." If a horse really thinks, we are sorry it can't talk so it could blurt out what it thinks about the South's getting its hay from Mexico, Canada, Oklahoma and Illinois. We are satisfied, however, that absolutely every horse will vote "neigh" on a proposition for the South to keep right on buying instead of producing its own hay.

CURRENT COMMENT.

The recall of judges provision being adopted by some of the States does not necessarily threaten our liberties. If it does not work satisfactorily it will be dropped and we will hear no more of it. To give some measures a fair trial is a sure means of killing them.—Durham Herald.

Savannah's cotton receipts yesterday reached the million-bale mark, making a new record by almost exactly a month. The previous million-bale record was made on December 10, 1905, while this one came on November 9th. Ten hundred thousand bales of cotton is a great lot of the staple and represents a big pile of money. Only a few years back we thought that when we touched the million-bale mark for a season it would be about as good as we might hope ever to do. But here we are with the new season only two months and nine days old and the million mark has already been reached and passed. We shall now probably have to set a peg for two millions, and get them. Savannah's leadership as a cotton port is now so firmly established that it is practically unchangable.—Savannah News, November 10th.

On most of the great issues the South is conservative, as it always was. The South disliked free silver, but loyalty to party impelled it to support that doctrine when it was indorsed by the National convention. At Bryan's defeats the South shed no tears. In the Democratic National convention of 1912 the delegates from the Southern States will probably exercise more influence in choosing candidates and in framing the platform than they have attempted to wield for the past half century. Although furnishing nearly all the electoral votes which the Democratic party polls, the South has heretofore allowed the North and West to select the tickets and construct the platforms. In the cause of political sanity the South is likely to say something next year to which the Democratic convention will be compelled to listen.—Frank Leslie's Weekly.

Forest rangers and natural resource conservators may write and preach. They may enlist all the missionary effort and energy it is possible to secure, but the work of vandalism goes right on. It is really discouraging to read of the spirit of destructiveness displayed by a party of men in Pennsylvania on a recent chestnut hunting expedition. If the reports are true some of them ought to be in the penitentiary. The reports have it that these men were not satisfied to gather chestnuts by knocking them from the boughs with sticks or climbing the trees. Their business was railroad construction work in which they were accustomed to use dynamite. So they bored holes in the trees, inserted sticks of the explosive and set them off by means of a fuse. The nuts were shaken down by hundreds by the force of the explosion, but many of the trees were shattered as if by lightning, and practically all of them will die. If there is any law to reach the perpetrators of such wanton vandalism it should be invoked and they should receive the extreme penalty. At this late day their acts cannot be excused by the plea of ignorance. The time has come when a stern example should be made of those who wilfully destroy tree life, slaughter game, or denude the waters of fish. There is a vast difference between manly sport and criminal vandalism.—Greensboro News.

RELIGIOUS MOVEMENT

Secretary Staley Receiving Many Letters at Charleston, S. C.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Charleston, S. C., Nov. 11.—Now that other cities and towns of North and South Carolina begin to realize the tremendous value and significance of the Men and Religion Forward Movement and the fact that they have only themselves to blame if they do not receive invaluable direct benefits, Robert K. Staley, executive secretary for the Carolinas, at 210 King street, is being flooded with letters of inquiry from cities, towns and villages of the two States. After urgent request, speakers have been sent (at the expense of the inviting city or town) to explain in person to Conferences of Pastors, Sunday School Superintendents and other laymen, the significance of the movement.

The prime object of this movement is to vitally strengthen the work for men and boys in every Protestant Church and Sunday School in North America. All of these churches have grave man and boy problems. Sane leaders of all denominations declare this movement has been divinely inspired to do this. The plan contemplates infinitely more than a short period of big meetings. It seeks to establish no new organization but to invigorate existing factors in the church and to broaden their programmes. It aims not to make itself but its influence permanent.

All North America will thrill with the achievements of this movement, under God, before next May. Every Protestant pastor in Charleston and hundreds of leading laymen are hoping that the churches and Sunday schools of Wilmington will investigate this movement quickly and fully. If they do and decide not to become an Auxiliary Center they will be the first not to eagerly enlist in this gigantic "forward match" of the Christian men and boys of North America.

GRAY HAIRS WILL DISAPPEAR

When You Use Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, a Simple Remedy for Dandruff, Falling Hair, and Faded or Gray Hair.

The old idea of using sage for darkening the hair is again coming in vogue. Our grandmothers used to have dark, glossy hair at the age of seventy-five, while our mothers have white hair before they are fifty. Our grandmothers used to make a "sage tea" and apply it to their hair. The tea made their hair soft and glossy, and gradually restored the natural color.

One objection to using such a preparation was the trouble of making it, especially as it had to be made every two or three days, on account of souring quickly. This objection has been overcome, and by asking almost any first-class druggist for Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy the public can get a superior preparation of sage, with the admixture of sulphur, another valuable remedy for hair and scalp troubles. Daily use of this preparation will not only quickly restore the color of the hair, but will also stop the hair from falling out and make it grow.

Get a bottle from your druggist today. Use it and see for yourself how quickly dandruff goes and gray hairs vanish.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

HOME CURE FOR RHEUMATISM

Do not waste time nor take chances of becoming a cripple or helpless sufferer from Rheumatism by trying to cure the disease with external applications alone. Such treatment sometimes gives relief from the severe pain, or may reduce the inflammation of a swollen joint or muscle, but the effect cannot be more than temporary. Each day the cause is allowed to remain in the system Rheumatism gets a firmer hold on its victim. Purify your blood of the inflammatory uric acid and then you will cure the disease permanently. The system will respond more quickly and surely to S. S. S. than any other treatment. This great blood purifier possesses the penetrating qualities necessary to drive out every trace of urate matter from the circulation and build the blood up to a nourishing and healthful condition. Only pure blood can overcome Rheumatism.

Thousands have cured themselves of Rheumatism by using S. S. S., a medicine made entirely of roots, herbs and barks; no harmful mineral enters into its composition, and S. S. S. is therefore safe for any one to use. Book on Rheumatism and medical advice free. S. S. S. is sold at drug stores.

SIXTH DISTRICT ODD FELLOWS

Annual Meeting Will be Held in Wilmington Wednesday of This Week—Several Fine Features—Programme.

With a meeting of the joint committee last night the final arrangements were made for the regular convention of the Odd Fellows for the sixth district, which will be held in the Odd Fellows' building, corner Third and Princess streets, this city, Wednesday of this week. Plans have been made to entertain in the homes of the local Odd Fellows all the delegates and visitors to the convention and it is expected that each lodge in the district will be well represented.

The committee on arrangements is composed of representatives from Cape Fear, Orion, Wilmington and Hanover lodges. Mr. W. H. Yopp is chairman and Mr. L. W. Moore is secretary. At the meeting last night final arrangements were made to take care of the visiting Odd Fellows while in the city.

Two sessions of the convention will be held, the first convening at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and the second at 8 o'clock in the evening. Mr. E. S. Hancock, of this city, is president of the convention, and Mr. M. C. Guthrie, of Southport, is secretary. Mr. W. H. Badon, of this city, is supervisor of the district. The following is the programme as announced yesterday by the committee:

Woodall, of Raleigh. The convention will then adjourn for supper.

An Address of Odd Fellowship—Grand Master W. H. Overton, of Durham.

Banquet given joinly by the lodges of Wilmington.

The Odd Fellows' Home at Goldsboro will be one of the matters to receive attention at the convention and the discussion relative to this splendid institution will be led by Orion Lodge, No. 67, Mr. L. W. Moore, of this city, an enthusiastic member of the order, talked interestingly yesterday of the institution and of the fine work it is doing. Wilmingtonians have a peculiar interest in the institution, which was founded by the late and lamented Nathaniel Jacobi, of Wilmington, in 1892, with 20 acres of land and one small building. There were five children to be cared for during the first year. Now there are four fine buildings and the number of children cared for is 160. Besides the Home has provision to take care of aged and infirm Odd Fellows, their wives, or those dependent upon them. Prior to a year ago the children in the orphanage were permitted to attend the Goldsboro graded schools without paying tuition, but a few months ago the city authorities decided to charge the pupils from the Home. This ruling caused the Home management to provide facilities for teaching most of the children at the institution. There are 140 in school at the orphanage and 19 are taking the higher courses in the Goldsboro High School. Recently 51 1-2 acres of land were purchased at a cost of $7,500, making a total of 97 1-2 acres. Mr. E. Leff Wagoner is the superintendent and the total value of the property is about $100,000. Mr. Moore mentioned the fact that the State and National governments will soon assist in the formation of a modern dairy at the Home, which will give the children there an opportunity of learning how to conduct a modern dairy. As an indication of the high stand taken by the children of the orphanage it might be mentioned that in a recent competitive contest in essays, debates and declamations between Goldsboro, Wilson and Fremont High Schools, it is gratifying to those interested in the work of the Home to note that four children were selected from the Goldsboro High School, all of whom were from the orphanage. Three of the four won first honor medals. The boys at the Home have to work half the day on the farm and the girls also have a number of practical duties. The Wilmington members of the order take great pride in the achievements of the Home and the matter will be discussed with interest at the convention.

Meeting at Bijou Theatre.

Dr. Moench, a language professor of note, will speak at the Bijou Theatre this afternoon at 5 o'clock, taking as his subject "Practical Christianity and Personal Reminiscences." Dr. Miench has recently returned from Germany, where he went to visit his old home in Wittenberg, his father being at one time the pastor of the famous Luther's church. The service is held under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. and because of Dr. Moench's popularity among the young people of the city, a large number of young people and older people, too, no doubt, will hear him. This service will begin the world-wide week of prayer for young men in this city and prayer services will be held every day in the association parlors at 1 o'clock.

—Under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. a religious meeting will be held at the Bijou Theatre this afternoon at 5 o'clock, when the speaker will be Dr. Moench, who has a wide reputation as a scholar and teacher of languages. The public is cordially invited and the attendance will doubtless be large.

ART EXHIBIT THIS WEEK

An Event of Much Importance at the High School Thursday, Friday and Saturday—Public Invited to Attend

There will be held in the auditorium of the Wilmington High School Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week perhaps the most notable fine arts exhibition ever given in this community. Next to visiting a regular art gallery a collection of this kind affords the best opportunity for the study of what is good and appropriate in architecture and art, and it is expected that the attendance of the people of the city and the school children will be large on each of the three days.

The exhibit is brought to Wilmington through the efforts of Mr. John J. Blair, superintendent of the city schools, who is deeply interested in everything that pertains to art. A few years ago when the exhibit was here the school netted $193, which was expended for pictures to be placed in the different school buildings. It is hoped to do even better this year.

The following is a very striking paragraph taken from the resolutions of Art League to Board of Education of New York city: "The interest in Art should be inculcable in the minds of the children in our schools at an early age, and it is necessary, for this purpose, to have works of art in the school buildings. The children would then become familiar with the master works of art of all ages, and absorb, unconsciously, what is true and good and beautiful."

In the collection to be shown at the High School all stages of art are represented, beginning with Egyptian architecture and coming down to modern American art. The pictures are all the most careful and faithful reproductions. The architectual subjects are reproduced directly from the originals, and the reproduction of the paintings are from the original canvasses. Wilmington people generally will no doubt embrace this opportunity to see the collection.

ROBINSON DRAWS EIGHT MONTHS

Negro Who Hit Wortham Sentenced to Roads—Appeals

In the Recorder's court yesterday morning Tom Robinson, colored, was tried on a charge of an assault with a deadly weapon upon Zeno Wortham, another negro. He was found guilty and sentenced to eight months on the county roads, from which sentence he took an appeal to the Superior Court.

The assault occurred at the Atlantict Coast Line freight yards, where both negroes worked, one day last week. They became involved in an altercation and Robinson picked up a cobble stone and struck Wortham in the head with it. The ambulance was called and Wortham was taken to the James Walker Memorial Hospital, while Robinson was arrested and placed in jail to await the outcome of his victim's injuries.

Only one other case occupied the attention of the court yesterday, that being that of a rural gentleman who had come to see the city and in seeing it imbibed too freely. He was taxed the costs for being drunk and was allowed to go.

SECURES USE OF SEMINOLE

Revenue Cutter Will Transport Special Guests to Southport

At the request of the committee of the Southport Chamber of Commerce in charge of arrangements for the railroad celebration on November 23rd, Mr. B. F. Keith, Collector of Customs, has secured from the Secretary of Treasury permission for the use of the revenue cutter Seminole to convey the special invited guests from Wilmington to Southport and return on the day of the event. The party on board the government boat will consist of the speakers for the day, Senators, Congressmen and other prominent men of this and other States. The cutter will also make a trip over to Fort Caswell with the prominent visitors. Capt. Berry, of the Seminole, will arrange with the committee the hour of departure and other details in connection with the use of the boat during the day.

DISPLAY OF OSTRICH PLUMES

Messrs. C. H. Fore & Co., Have Announcement of Interest to Ladies

Of surpassing interest to the ladies of the city is the announcement of Messrs. C. H. Fore & Co., on Market street, which will be found elsewhere in today's paper. Recently the Facific Plume Co., one of the largest and most exclusive importers of plumes in the world sent to the Wilmington firm a large display of the choicest black and colored, ostrich plumes ever seen in Wilmington and these will be used for a big three-day sale which will start on Monday. The prices were even a marvel to the firm of Messrs. Fore and Co., and they should certainly prove so for the hundreds of ladies who will call to see the display even if they do not purchase.

DONALDSON DEFEATED AGAIN

The Wilmington High School Eleven Scores Second Victory on Cadet Team from Fayetteville—Attendance Good

For the second time this season the football team from Donaldson Military Academy went down to defeat before the crack eleven of the Wilmington High School yesterday afternoon at League Park when the local lads piled up a score of 16 to 0 against the plucky cadet opponents. The game was a good one and the large attendance thoroughly enjoyed the fine work of both teams.

Though the fighting was for the most part in Donaldson's territory the cadet lads rallied at times and on one occasion were dangerously near the High School goal. However, the local boys always held their own in pinches and the Fayetteville team failed to cross the line or kick goal for a single point.

The detailed report is as follows:

First Qaurter—Donaldson kicked off to Wilmington. Capt. Burnett, gained the ball and was downed on 30-yard line. Wilmington punts and Donaldson receives on 50-yard line. Donaldson kicked and Wilmington took the ball on 35-yard line. On a fake kick by Donaldson Wilmington takes ball again on 30-yard line. After 3 downs Wilmington makes successful forward pass to Burnett. Wilmington continues her gains with beautiful end runs by Hall and Burnett for 10 and 12 yards each. On first down Hashagen makes end run for 10 yards. Wilmington pounds Donaldson's line for a gain. On third down Wilmington loses ball on unsuccessful forward pass. After two downs on which very little gain was made by Donaldson time was out.

Second Quarter—Wilmington's ball on 30-yard line. After two downs Wilmington kicked and Donaldson takes ball on 5-yard line. The Academy made 10 yards in two downs and on first down Donaldson was sent back 15 yards by Monroe breaking through. Donaldson kicked and Houston took ball on 30-yard line. Wilmington advances to within 5 yards of opponents goal by line plunging in next two downs. On line buck Burnett goes over for a touchdown. Failed to kick goal. Score: Wilmington 5; Donaldson, 0.

Wilmington kicked off to Donaldson, who received ball on 10-yard line. Donaldson goes for 18 yards in two downs. After three downs "Gloomy" Stone makes pretty tackle. Donaldson makes further gain and time is out.

Second Half—Wilmington kicked to Donaldson, who advanced 10 yards. First down. Donaldson gains 8 yards on end run. Ball advanced by Stone on pretty end run. Wilmington then got ball on downs and kicked. Houston recovered kick and William tried drop kick for goal but failed. Ball was brought out to Donaldson's 20-yard line and Donaldson executed forward pass successfully. Townsend kicked and Burnett received ball and advanced it a few yards. Hall makes end run for 25 yards. Ball on Donoldson's one-yard line. Burnett goes over through Donaldson's line and Williams kicked goal. Score: Wilmington, 11; Donaldson, 0.

Penny was here substituted for Herring and Fryar for Shaw. Wilmington kicked off and Smith, for Donaldson, received and advanced ball 10 yards. Stone makes good end run and on end run by Townsend, Wells sustained injuries in tackling which put him out of the game. Penny was here substituted for Wells and Smith was put in at tackle in Penny's place Townsend tried kick but fumbled and ball went over. Burnett received forward pass and advanced ball 10 yards. Hall makes good end run and Donaldson was penalized for foul tackle. Houston makes 10 yards on short end run and quarter ended with Wilmington's ball on Donaldson's 10-yard line.

Fourth Quarter — Houston goes through Donaldson's line for 10 yards, but no further gain is made by Wilmington and the ball goes over. Townsend kicked and Wilmington recovered ball. On two end runs ball was advanced to Donaldson's 5-yard line and Burnett made touchdown on forward pass from Hall. Williams failed to kick goal. Score: Wilmington 16; Donaldson, 0.

Wilmington kicked to Donaldson and ball was advanced 10 yards. Townsend kicked and Houston recovered kick. Donaldson got ball on downs. Stone makes good end run for 15 yards, Townsend tries for goal but Fryar blocked the kick. Donaldson recovered and kicked again. Houston recovered ball back of Wilmington's goal. The ball was taken out 25 yards and game ended with Wilmington's ball in her own territory.

The stars for Donaldson were Townsend and Stowe and for Wilmington the whole team, but especially Burnett, R., Wells, Houston, Hall and Monroe.

The line-up of the teams was as follows:

Wilmington	Positions	Donaldson
Wells	C	Lamoeth
Shaw, Penny and Fryar	R. G.	Kirven
Herring, Smith	L. G.	Glover
Burnett, C.	R. T.	Smith
Meier	L. T.	McNeill
Monroe	R. E.	McNeill
Stone, Hashagen	L. E.	Cook
Williams	R. H. B.	Wannamaker
Hall	L. H. B.	Jones
Burnett	R. F. B.	Stowe
Houston	L. F. B.	Townsend

Substitutes for Donaldson, Newton and Davis.

Officials of the game were: Russell, (LaFayette), referee; Ruffin (Carolin), umpire; Oates, timekeeper; Lynch, head linesman.

Featuring the game were Townsend's long punts for Donaldson and the successful spectacular use of the forward pass by the High School. The attendance was the largest on the local field this year and the spectators were enthusiastic over the fine plays. A large delegation of High School students was present to root for the local team and their hearty cheering inspired the Wilmington boys to do their best.

The High School has played three games so far this year, winning two of them and playing the Rocky Mount apprentice boys to a standstill in the other game, in which neither side was able to score.

CONFERENCE OF A.M.E. CHURCH

Colored Methodists of Eastern Part of State Will Hold 43rd Session At St. Stephen's Church This Week

(By Geo. F. King).

The 43rd session of the North Carolina Conference of the African Methodist Episcopal church, will convene in this city at St. Stephen's A. M. E. church next Wednesday morning Bishop L. J. Coppins, D. D., one of the ablest pulpiteers, authors and lecturers in his race, will preside. This conference embraces the eastern half of the State and its membership is composed of progressive men and women.

There will probably be over 300 ministers, delegates and visitors attending the conference. A number of distinguished negro ministers, educators and general officers of the church from New York, Philadelphia, Washington, D. C., Norfolk and other section of the country will be present and they will contribute their talent to the interesting sessions that will be held from next Wednesday to next Sunday night, at which time the Bishop will make his appointments.

This religious organization which is said to have over 700,000 communicants, has its own printery and edits and publishes nearly all of its literature. Its Sunday school department at Nashville, Tenn., under the management of Prof. Ira T. Bryant, publishes all of its literature for the thousands of Sunday schools throughout this country, Africa and other islands where the negro is to be found. "The Christian Recorder," the official organ of the denomination, is the oldest negro weekly paper in the country. All departments of the church will be well represented at this annual conference. Such departments as educational, under the secretaryship of Prof. Jno. R. Hawkins, one of the ablest orators and statisticans on education in his race, and the missionary society of the general church are concrete evidences of the negroes' ability to govern and manage commendable movements for the reaching of his benighted people in Africa and help the negro at home to be desirable citizen. This conference with the Western North Carolina, Virginia and Baltimore conferences, supports Kittrell College, Kittrell, N. C. This institution has reached hundreds of negroes in North Carolina and turned their activities into channels of usefulness.

The greatest interest during the conference session will be centered upon the election of delegates to the Ecumencial Conference of the church, which will be held next May at Kansas City, Mo. This body is composed of a large portion of the progressive element of the negro race and its acts are of vital import, hence the importance of the election of delegates to this great body of negroes from nearly every section of the world where the negroes are thickly settled. There are many features of the next general conference that is already being discussed by the ministry and the laity, especially in this conference and the adherents of various new ideas for the general advancement of the church will be present at this annual conference. Dr. G. D. Barnes, the present pastor of St. Stephen's church, this city, has for a number of years been one of the representatives of his conference at the quadrennial meeting of his church and he is among the progressive element of the church.

The members and friends of St. Stephen's church are preparing to make the entertainment of the conference unprecedented. The best element of colored people in the city, regardless of their religious affiliations always contribute to the success of making Wilmington cap the climax when it comes to making tangible impressions upon visitors, to the effect that the negroes in Wilmington live as well as negroes in any section of the country.

SPENT HER MONEY WELL

On beautiful Sheridan avenue, in Detroit, lives Miss Marie Richter in perfect health, although a year ago she was almost a wreck. Writing of her condition at that time she says: "Last Winter I was completely run-down and felt fagged-out all the time, was nervous, and had indigestion.

"One of my friends advised me to take Vinol and it has done me great good. The tired, worn-out feeling is all gone and I am strong, vigorous and well. The stomach trouble soon disappeared and now I eat heartily and have perfect digestion. I wish every tired, weak, nervous woman could have Vinol, for I neevr spent any money in my life that did me so much good as that I spent for Vinol."

Thousands of women and men who were formerly weak and sickly owe their present rugged health to the wonderful strength-creating effects of Vinol. If you are pale, weak, nervous and upset you owe it to yourself and your family to try Vinol. It will build you and make you strong. If it does not we give back your money. Robt. R. Bellamy, Druggist, Wilmington, N. C.

Petty Robberies Friday Night

Three petty robberies, or attempted robberies, have been reported to police headquarters as occurring Friday night. Walton Bros., at Seventh and Orange streets, reported that they found their building broken open yesterday morning and that a bale of hay had been carried from the building a short distance to a fence, where they found it. Standing beside it was a push cart. The robber had evidently become frightened and left the hay and cart. Mr. R. A. Montgomery reported that some one entered his stable at Eighth and Princess streets and stole a set of buggy harness. W. H. Rehder, colored, reported that a box of tools was stolen from him at corner of Second and Walnut streets.

"BY THE LIGHT OF THE MOON."

City Editor of the Dispatch Rejoices in Handsome New Machine.

At the garage of the Wilmington Auto Repair Co., No. 7 North Third street, Mr. Leonard Bruce Douglass, the canny Scot in charge, was showing to the automobile public a very handsome 40-horse power Moon car, one of the latest and most up-to-date machines that now grace the fine macadam roads of New Hanover. It is entirely unnecessary to say that the car is for Mr. Louis T. Moore, city editor of the Dispatch, and that in future when the "Moon" looms upon the horizon, all other vehicles, motor driven, mule propelled, or common, ordinary pedestrians who propel themselves, had as well take to the woods.

But in all seriousness, the new Moon car is one of the handsomest that has come Wilmington's way in a long time, the Wilmington Auto Repair Co., having only recently secured the agency for all lines of this machine. The car is easily the aristocrat of its class and attracted much admiration on the streets yesterday. It has the famous T. head motor, 4 1-2 by 5 inch stroke, and the body is of the torpedo type, four-passenger capacity, handsomely finished in battleship gray and brown leather upholstering.

At the risk of his life, limb and future happiness, a representative of the Star was permitted to enjoy the luxury of the new car for a brief drive yesterday afternoon. It clipped them off at 60 miles an hour or slowed down to three miles in the congestion of traffic. It is a splendid machine and will be a "thing of beauty and a joy forever" to its generous owner and all who may be fortunate enough to be numbered among the circle of his friends.

AUTO CRASHED INTO BUGGY.

Accident on Castle Haynes Road—Machine Did Not Stop.

In an advertisement in this morning's Star Messrs. W. D. Pugh and D. M. Williams, well known citizens of this city, offere a reward of $5 for information as to persons in a big touring car which ran into their buggy on the Castle Haynes road, between Castle Haynes and the Northeast river, Friday night, about 8 o'clock, throwing the buggy over into the ditch and dumping the occupants, but fortunately neither Mr. Pugh nor Mr. Williams was injured. Damage to the extent of $8 or $10 was done to the buggy. Despite the appeals of Messrs. Pugh and Williams the persons in the car did not stop to offer and relief. Had Messrs. Pugh and Williams been dangerously injured it apparently would have been all the same to the occupants of the automobile. The car did not have any lights, it is said. Messrs. Pugh and Williams were coming toward the city while the automobile, probably containing "joyriders" was outward bound. After a time Messrs. Pugh and Williams succeeded in getting themselves together and the vehicle in running order and came on to the city.

A TRADE DEVELOPER.

October Was Banner Month for Trade Extension Association.

October proved the banner month for the Wilmington Trade Extension Association. The marked increase and general improvement in the retail feature of the organization assures the continued success of the movement.

The increase in sales of retail merchants has been fully 40 per cent. over the previous months during the existence of the association. Members continue to send hundreds of advertising folders to their out-of-town customers and these with the assistance of newspaper articles, which have been gladly published and broadcasted over a large section, the movement has been greatly encouraged.

People in small towns and the country are beginning to realize the many advantages of the organization and are buying a share of their goods in Wilmington, where they get their fare paid, rather than sending their orders to Northern houses. There is every reason to believe that large numbers of purchasers will come to Wilmington to buy from members of the association during November and December.

IS STRANGER THAN FICTION

Fred McKenzie, Colored, Claims He Owns Property Upon Which Most of City of Wilmington is Located.

If by any chance or whim of fate the claims of Fred McKenzie, colored, better known to the Wilmington public as Fred Davis, are true, and if he can prove them in a court of law, he will probably be the wealthiest negro in the United States, for he would literally own the city of Wilmington—at least that part of it upon which the most valuable real estate lies.

Stranger by far than fiction, even than the wildest dreams of Edgar Allen Poe, would the situation be if this dusky Afro-American can prove that his claims are just and that he is really the owner of the valuable property which he alleges was willed to his ancestors back in the Colonial days.

In another column of The Star this morning will be found a dispatch from the Raleigh correspondent to the effect that McKenzie has appealed to the State officials for aid in recovering this property.

McKenzie, a tall, slender negro of perhaps a shade more than the average intelligence of his race, discussed the matter very fully to a Star representative last night. The property which he alleges belongs to him and his relatives begins at a point on the Cape Fear river at the foot of Market street, runs north up the river to a point some distance north of the Seaboard tracks, thence east a short distance, thence south to Market street and west down Market street 150 poles to the point of beginning.

His story goes back to the Colonial days and according to his statement the property as far back as he has been able to trace it, was first owned by Mr. Marsden Campbell, of New Hanover county. On the death of Mr. Campbell it went to his heirs, Jas. G. Campbell, Marsden Campbell, Jr., Hugh Y. Waddell and wife, John Marsden Waddell and William Campbell. It was finally acquired by the last named, William Campbell, who before his death left this State for Louisiana. On leaving the State Mr. Campbell desired to leave his property to Moses Davis, a slave, but as the laws of North Carolina prohibited a slave from holding property, he was forced to leave it in the hands of a number of trustees to hold for Moses Davis. These trustees were Messrs. T. C. Miller, Fred D. Lord, Thos. D. Meares, William A. Wright, Joshua Wright and the town of Wilmington, in the county of New Hanover. At that time the town of Wilmington did not cover any of the property owned by Mr. Campbell.

On the death of Moses Davis, McKinzie claims, the property went to his daughter, Lucy Davis, who married a negro named McKinzie. She soon left McKinzie, however, but not until after she had borne him children. Her first child was Fred McKinzie, or Fred Davis. He was the father of a second Fred Davis, who in turn had a son named Fred Davis, or Fred McKenzie, the present claimant to the land.

McKenzie claims to have the original deed of trust, in which the land is left to the trustees to hold for Moses Davis. This he says, is in Washington, D. C., just at present, but he says there is a certified copy in the city. He also has several other legal papers bearing on the matter.

He expects that the Governor will look into the matter for him and is waiting to hear from the State officials. He says that there are several points that he must yet trace out and establish before he can claim his property, but he is confident that the land upon which a great part of the city of Wilmington is located rightfully belongs to him.

Governor Kitchin Here

Governor William Walton Kitchin is a guest at The Orton today. He arrived in the city last night from Bolton, where he spoke yesterday, and will spend Sunday in Wilmington, leaving Monday morning for Raleigh. His many friends here will be delighted to greet him again.

DARING ATTEMPT AT ROBBERY.

Negroes Entered Southside Drug Store.—Did Not Get Anything.

A daring attempt at robbery occurred at the Southside Drug Company, corner Front and Castle streets, last evening about 6:30 o'clock when two negroes tried to steal a bottle of cocaine, but were foiled by Mr. Carl Miller, the manager, and a bystander who helped him put them to rout.

One of the negroes entered through the side door which opens into the building behind the prescription stand, but Mr. Miller saw him just as he snatched the bottle of cocaine. Mr. Miller grabbed the negro, who dropped the cocaine and struggled to escape. A Mr. Sellers, who was in the store at the time, ran to his assistance and as he did so another negro, who was standing on the outside, picked up a brick and hurled it at him. Mr. Sellers dodged and the brick struck the woodwork just above his head, making a deep indentation. In the meantime the negro, who had entered the store, succeeded in breaking away from Mr. Miller and made his escape. They had not been apprehended at a late hour last night.

Mr. Miller remembered that the negro who entered the store had been in a few days before to get a slight injury on one of his hands dressed. He had been behind the prescription stand and that fact accounted for his familiarity with the place and his ability to pick up the bottle of cocaine at once.

"GIRL FROM RECTOR'S."

Presented Here to Two Fairly Large Audiences Yesterday.

Yesterday afternoon and last night the theatre-goers of the city again had the opportunity of seeing "The Girl From Rector's", which was presented before two fairly large and well pleased audiences. Each member of the cast played his or her part well, winning frequent applause and repeated curtain calls. "The Girl From Rector's" was here last season, when, following talk that it was libidinous and immoral it was presented under censorship, while in some other cities it was debarred entirely by the authorities. The play did not give offense to any of the large number of ladies in the audience when it was presented here before, nor did they see anything especially objectionable as it was presented yesterday. In the afternoon the ladies predominated and if one is to judge by the enthusiastic applause they accorded at frequent intervals and the repeated curtain calls, especially at the close of the second act, the attraction pleased immensely.

There were a large number of ladies present again last night. The worst thing about "The Girl From Rector's" is its reputation and that is not as bad as it was a year ago.

BIG PYTHIAN RALLY.

Arrangements Complete for Celebration Here Thursday Night.

One of the biggest events in local Pythian circles in some months will be the celebration Thursday evening of this week of "Orphans' Home Day," postponed from last Friday. He will have as his subject, "Romances of Pythianism." The meeting will be held in Castle Hall in the Murchison National Bank building and in addition to the Pythians from all the local lodges there will be a number of visiting Knights from other lodges in the district. Mr. Mallett will be introduced by a prominent local Pythian and among those in attendance will be Mr. G. Herbert Smith, of Cronly, a member of the board of trustees of the orphanage at Clayton, which is now caring for a large number of children.

NORTH CAROLINA SOROSIS

The Literature Department of the North Carolina Sorosis held their first meeting of the season at the home of the chairman, on Thursday afternoon, November 9th. In answering to name called, each member gave the name of a Greek god or goddess.

The attendance was very large and enthusiastic, the subject of study for the afternoon being Mythology.

The meeting was opened by the chairman with a discussion of myths, legends and fables, and several illustrations of our own myths of the Indian tribes as to the creation of the earth, and also a talk on the subject of the use of the Greek and Roman names for the gods and goddesses.

First on the programme was a mythogicial story of the creation and origin of man, which was given by Mrs. M. H. P. Clark in a lucid and comprehensive manner. Her talk embraced creation time, religion, rotation, earth, heaven, man, animals, love center, hatred, earth beautiful, formation of sexes and sovereignty of Jupiter or Zeus.

Many myths were told by different members, among which were the Twelve Tasks of Hercules, Story of Endymion, short sketch of Nemesis, showing how Nemesis wrought vengeance on all evil doers; Story of Daphne, how she was turned into a laurel tree to keep Apollo, the sun god, from moving her. Apollo then made the laurel, the emblem of honor and triumph. Miss Elizabeth Price recited "The King Admetus" by Lowell.

An essay on the Debt of Our Poets to Mythology was a paper showing much thought and research and was greatly enjoyed by all present, proving that the Greek Myths have been used by our bards and poets from all time. Milton's Paradise Lost would be meaningless to any one not familiar with the Greek myths. Homer, Longfellow and Tennyson all sang of the glory of the gods and goddesses.

Owing to sickness of members part of the programme was omitted, so the meeting adjourned. Every one having enjoyed a delightful evening, being enthusiastic over the work covered by the chairman.

The Art Department of Sorosis met at the home of the chairman, Miss Ruth Faison Shaw, Friday, 10th inst. This department was re-organized and the work planned for the Winter. Mrs. W. T. Bannerman was elected secretary. The meetings are to be held on the second Friday of each month at the home of the chairman, the subject of study being Greek art.

The Health Committee of Sorosis desires to express its gratification at the good beginning which has been made in the campaign towards thorough and regular medical inspection of the public schools. The committee has, within the past month, held several interesting conferences with Dr. Nesbitt, superintendent of health, and it is hoped that his recent clear and comprehensive recommendation to the City Council on this important subject may lead to great results.

Sorosis hopes that all parents and friends will encourage and aid this revival of interest in the children.

The stupid boy is usually the boy with adenoids or whose head aches constantly from poor eyes; but.

He doesn't know it. So when his report shows that he has failed to pass, he has no excuse to offer.

The inattentive, girl probably does not hear the teacher well; But,

When all the "ought tos" have been successfully attended to, the millenium will be here. Meanwhile—

Let us give the children a square deal. They can not give it to themselves.

Spacious Offices in Small Areas

Like the well-furnished home, the modern office should so utilize its available space that it never creates the impression of being overcrowded.

Congestion always suggests disorder.

Interruptions to important business deals, aggravating delays and clerical mistakes are frequently caused by poorly planned offices, using unstandardized and different makes of filing cabinets that neither match up or harmonize on the outside, nor afford a uniform efficient service on the inside.

As will be noted in both these illustrations, these offices are not larger than those in the average business block; yet they create the impression of ample room for transacting business without interference.

THE COTTON MARKET RALLIED

After Opening Lower—Probably Inspired by Bad Weather Predictions Over Sunday—Receipts at the Ports.

New York, Nov. 11.—After opening lower in response to disappointing Liverpool cables, the cotton market rallied during today's trading on bull support and covering, which was probably inspired chiefly by predictions of unfavorable weather over Sunday.

The close was very steady at a net advance of 1 to 6 points. The market opened steady at a decline of 3 to 6 points, which was rather better than due on the showing of the English market. This decline carried January back to a little under the nine cent mark once more and very much the same resistance developed around that level as previously during the past three or four weeks. At any rate, the market soon steadied and later in the morning sold about 3 to 7 points net higher on support from the same strong interests who were aggressive on Thursday and Friday and covering for over the week-end. The close was within a point or two of the best active months. The forecast for snow and cold in the West no doubt accounted for much of the covering, as scattering shorts showed little disposition to carry through commitments over Sunday on a probable bad weather report, and in view of talk of continued Southern holding. Some were inclined to regard the relative weakness of Liverpool, which has recently shown leading strength, as reflecting a less favorable view of the situation in the China trade, but it is said that while China merchants have attempted to cancel orders for goods in the domestic market, the mills have refused to permit such action on the ground that the port of Shanghai is open, and that there is no reason why the shipments should not be made. Comparatively little news was circulated from Southern spot centres during the morning and probably the failure of yesterday's late report of an easier tendency to receive confirmation of a character suggesting a general loosening up of holders helped to steady the futures market during the morning in connection with the prospect of more unfavorable weather for ginning and the movement.

Receipts at the ports today 70,000 bales against 59,468 last week and 47,579 last year; for the week 450,000 bales against 451,490 last week and 414,823 last year. Today's receipts at New Orleans 9,473 bales against 5,151 last year, and at Houston 11,729 bales against 11,472 last year.

Spot closed quiet, 5 points higher; middling uplands, 9.50; middling gulf, 9.75; sales, 6.13 bales.

Futures closed very steady.

ADVANCE IN STOCKS CHECKED

Advanced in Spite of Flood of Profit, But Steadied by Increased Outside Buying—Atlantic Coast Line One of Heaviest.

New York, Nov. 11.—The rapid advance in stocks was checked today by extensive realising. After a heavy opening the market advanced in spite of the flood of profit taking sales exhibiting a degree of strength which surprised traders who looked for an extensive reaction. Reading rose 1 1-2, its highest price since August, and other active stocks rebounded from their low figures. The list did not remain long at any given point, however, and after a series of irregular movements sold off toward the close. Some of the active issues, including United States Steel, Union Pacific, Amalgamated Copper and Northern Pacific lost a point or so on the day.

It was the opinion of market observers that the list withstood the selling in a way which demonstrated considerable underlying strength. The market was steadied to some extent by increased outside buying as shown by the breadth of trading. International Harvester was especially weak, with a loss of 2 1-2 points.

The placing of railroad loans, which has been on a much more active scale of late, was continued today. Sales of Atlantic Coast Line and Texas Central bonds were announced. Atlantic Coast Line was one of the heaviest of the railroad stocks.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales par value $1,930,000. U. S. 3s advanced 1-8 on call on the week. Total sales for the day 481,800 shares.

THE GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, November 11.—Wheat snapped back more than two cents today, after a sudden upturn jump of a cent. Shorts in a stampede over sensational damage said to have been caused by the blizzard in the Northwest, forced the bulge until a deluge of profit-taking sales on spreads between Minneapolis and Chicago sent prices down with a crash. The close was comparatively steady, but at a loss of ½@⅝c. to 1 cent net.

Corn was dull, but closed steady, ⅜@½c. down. Active selling destroyed the strength shown early in oats. High and low levels touched by December were 47¾ and 47¼, with the close at the last named figure.

BREAKING PAPER TRUST

Congressman Stanley Says Wood Pulp Should be Imported Free

Washington, Nov. 11.—Representative Stanley, of Kentucky, who is chairman of the House Steel Investigating Committee, stated in an interview here that he favored breaking the so-called paper trust by permitting free importation of wood pulp and print paper from Germany, Norway and Sweden.

He said he did not think this action would make such a difference in revenues, that the Ways and Means Committee could not recoup and that the people would welcome both the reduction in taxation and the smashing of a trust.

Use TIZ— Smaller Feet

Sore Feet, Tender Feet and Swollen Feet Cured EveryTime. TIZ Makes Sore Feet Well No Matter What Ails Them.

Everyone who is troubled with sore, sweaty, or tender feet—swollen feet—smelly feet, corns, callouses or bunions can quickly make their feet well now. Here is instant relief and a lasting permanent remedy—it's called TIZ. TIZ makes sore feet well and swollen feet are quickly reduced to their natural size. Thousands of ladies have been able to wear shoes a full size smaller with perfect comfort.

It's the only foot remedy ever made which acts on the principal of drawing out all the poisonous exudations which cause sore feet. Powders and other remedies merely clog up the pores. SEGREGATION OF PATIENTS

Dr. Wiley's Method of Handling Tuberculosis Patients

Cranford, N. J., Nov. 11.—The segregation of all tuberculosis patients on an island was suggested by Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, chief of the Bureau of Chemistry, in an address here tonight under the auspices of the Cranford Village Improvement Association.

"We must give the State power to stamp out tuberculosis and authority to segregate every infectious and contagious disease," said Dr. Wiley. "Every man woman and child who dies of a preventable disease is either a suicide or a victim of murder. Through State supervision and regulation is the only solution of the problem."

Dr. Wiley called attention to the fact that the Department of Agriculture spends thousands of dollars to stamp out disease in hogs and cattle, but that a woman, whose child is afflicted with tuberculosis, could get no aid from government. It was here that he made his suggestion as to the segregation of tuberculosis patients, saying that they should be kept there until they were either cured or dead. "Every person here tonight will die before he ought to, unless there are concerted efforts for the conservation of public health," continued Dr. Wiley. "Public health is more valuable than all other National resources. If more women were taught properly how to use the cook stove instead of the piano, America would be better off."

New York, Nov. 11.—Dr. Harvey W. Wiley drew one resounding burst of applause after another from members and guests of the league for Political Education here today when in speaking of "the fight for pure food," he declared that the passage of the food law was due entirely to the emphatic feminine whispers of "do it," sent inspiringly into the ears of representatives of Congress.

"The passage of the bill was due to the Federation of Womans' Clubs of the country."

TELEPHONE DISPATCHING.

Southern Railway to Extend System to Greensboro, N. C.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Greensboro, N. C., Nov. 11.—The Southern Railway Company, in the furtherance of its plan of dispatching trains by telephone, has asked for estimates for an extension of its telephone lines from Monroe, Va., to Greensboro, so as to make the system extend without break from Salisbury-Spencer to Monroe, Va. There is now in operation 120 miles and it is stated here that the service has proven very satisfactory. Dispatchers in Greensboro maintain that for running trains the telephone is superior to the telegraph, although they are frank to admit that the days of the "knights of the key" are far from being numbered. The dispatching of trains by telephone over the Southern system is yet in an experimental stage, and for this reason the two systems will for a time at least be maintained, although the telegraph operators from here to Monroe now use the telephone in running trains exclusively.

VALUE OF WEATHER BUREAU.

Immense Saving of Life and Property During Fiscal Year.

Washington, Nov. 11.—Timely information of wrecks along the Atlantic coast between Capes Henry and Hatteras, furnished during the past fiscal year by the Weather Bureau, saved more than $325,000 through the assistance thus rendered, it is estimated by officials of the bureau. Twelve wrecks occurred between the two capes during the year, all of which were reported by the life saving service to the Weather Bureau telegraph stations at Cape Henry, Cape Hatteras or Manteo when the information was telegraphed promptly to agents, owners and others interested.

Property valued at $350,000 endangered in 18 casualties on Lake Huron was saved partly as a result of the information furnished from the Weather Bureau station at Alpena, Mich.

AMERICANS WITHDRAW

Serious Rupture in Connection With International Art Exposition

Rome, Nov. 11.—Trouble which has been brewing at the International At Exposition for some time boiled over today and Harrison S. Morris, the American commissioner, withdrew, at the same time recalling his associates on the American jury, William Henry Fox, art director, and Joseph Pennell, the artist. Mr. Fox, according to Mr. Morris, refused to resign and was dropped. The American pavillion has been closed.

In a statement issued tonight, Mr. Morris intimates that the Italian management acts in bad faith with the result that the American exhibits, valued at half a million dollars, must have been exposed to a possible loss by fire, if the artists were to share in the prizes. He explains that the insurance on the exhibits had been permitted to lapse forcing the closing of the American pavilion on the last day of October in order that its contents have the protection which still covered the removal of the works to the United States. Promises to renew the insurance were not fulfilled, he says, while the management deliberately delayed the award of prizes in order to keep the expositions open. Meantime it developed that American exhibitors were to be debarred from the prizes, unless their pavilion remained open.

This rupture has caused a sensation which has been increased by Mr. Morris' statement in which he says that England, France, Germany and Spain also have withdrawn. The president of the exhibition committee is Count Di San Martino.

The American pavilion was opened on April 22nd by King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena and has attracted much attention. On October 27th His Majesty purchased the whole series of thirty etchings by Joseph Pennell.

Notwithstanding the withdrawal of the Americans, Mr. Pennell has been elected a member of the final jury of ten to make awards.

THE STREET CLEANERS' STRIKE.

Although Rioting Continued All Day Strike Remains Unsettled.

New York, Nov. 11.—Although rioting continued all day the street cleaners' strike in New York remained unsettled tonight with no indication of either the city authorities or the strikers giving in.

Street Cleaning Commissioner Edwards began preparation for a long siege by establishing commissary departments in various stables to feed strike breakers. On the other hand, a general teamsters' strike in sympathy with the garbage collectors, who are out, is threatening. Department store drivers and other teamsters' organizations held meetings tonight to consider the question. Little progress was made today in removing the garbage which litters the streets.

One of the most sensational incidents of the day was the arrest in Brooklyn of a young woman, Molly Sussman, 22 years old, who, after addressing a mob, led an attack, the police say, upon a squad of strikebreakers and herself leaped on the wagon and assaulted the driver. When a policeman seized her the mob closed in and attempted a rescue. Other policemen with drawn revolvers formed a cordon about the girl and held their ground until reserves came to their assistance.

The girl was then taken to the station house and locked up on a charge of assault.

On Tenth avenue bullets flew when the police fired into the air to disperse a menacing mob that threw sticks and stones at the strikebreaking drivers. Outbreaks were general in other parts of the city, resulting in the injury of several persons.

AN IMPORTANT EXPERIMENT.

Projectile Fired in Hampton Roads Penetrated Armor Plate.

Washington, Nov. 11.—The projectile which was fired in experiments yesterday in Hampton Roads from the Davis cannon torpedo at the submerged caisson representing the side of a battleship apparently succeeded in penetrating the two-inch armor plate which had been placed on the outside of the caisson. The caisson quickly sank after the shot exploded. The extent of the damage inflicted upon the target cannot be known until the caisson is in dry dock at Norfolk. The experiment is believed to have been of the greatest importance to the navy and it will make necessary a complete revision of the methods of torpedo attack and defense.

N. & W. ACCIDENT

Member of Section Gang Injured---Firemen Also Injured

Lynchburg, Va., Nov. 11.—As a double-headed freight train was passing a section gang on the Norfolk & Western Railway, 20 miles west of here, this afternoon, the front of the locomotive was struck and James Galloway, a colored man from Bedford, received wounds from flying grate bar which caused his death tonight at a hospital here. William Rosser, a white fireman from Roanoke, who was scalded about the face, head and back, was brought here and his condition tonight is pronounced critical. The cause of the explosion is not known. Several others received injuries.

ECZEMA REMEDY ALSO WASHES PIMPLES AWAY.

No remedy that I have ever sold for eczema, psoriasis, and all other diseases of the skin has given more thorough satisfaction that the D. D. D. Prescription for eczema.

A 25c trial bottle can be secured at once.

My patrons find that D. D. D. not only gives instant relief to the itching, burning skin, quickly driving out all the disease germs, but it is also the most delightful wash for the complexinon they ever used. Absolutely harmless and pleasant to use, D. D. D. cleanses the skin of all minor impurities, such as rashes and pimples, over night, and leaves the skin clear and smooth as that of a child.

It is now generally known that there is nothing that can equal D. D. D. as a household remedy for all skin troubles, no matter what they are.

I, myself, am so fully convinced of the merits of this wonderful remedy that we will charge you nothing if the first full size bottle of D. D. D. does not make good every claim.

Better drop in and talk it over with us anyhow.

KILLED BY TRAIN

V. C. & S. Has First Fatal Accident ---Lumberton News

(Special Star Telegram.)

Lumberton, N. C., Nov. 11.—Mr. J. M. Hall, a very old man, was killed this morning near St. Paul's by the V. & C. S. train bound from Hope Mills to Lumberton. The train was running about 30 miles an hour when it struck the unfortunate man. The engineer saw him walking by the track and when the train was within about 30 feet of him, he stepped upon the track in front of the train. Mr. Hall is said to have been deaf and did not hear the train. No blame is attached to the railroad people.

J. C. Lewis, a colored man of this vicinity, was arrested here Thursday by Chief Redfern, charged with check flashing. He got two years on the roads. Criminals need not try to work here while Redfern is on the job.

The condition of Mrs. T. A. McNeill, who has been very sick at the Highsmith Hospital, in Fayetteville, for several days, was reported as improving.

SAVINGS AND TRUST CO. INTO HANDSOME NEW HOME

Progressive Wilmington Bank Will Soon Occupy Massive Building on Princess Street—Something of Its Career and Men Who Manage it.

In a full page advertisement, carried in this issue, The Wilmington Savings & Trust Co., makes announcement of its removal to its handsome new home at 110 Princess street, on Nov 15th. This news will be read with interest not only by the people of Wilmington, but by hundreds living outside the city who have been attracted as customers to the Bank by its well deserved reputations for strength and conservative methods.

The cut of the building can do it, but scant justice as the handsome white stone front, with bronze trimmings, looks a great deal better on the street than on paper. It is a notable addition to the business map of Wilmington, and from date of completion will be one of the show places of the city. The building rises a dignified pile of white Indiana limestone, and projects columns hign above its surroundings, forming a focus for all eyes in reach. Embodying all the best and latest ideas in modern fireproof construction, as well as beauty and utility, the building illustrates the progressiveness of Wilmington, and of one of the city's leading and most substantial financial institutions. It adds materially to the strength and stability of the bank whose wisdom, foresight and initiative made it possible.

In designing the building, Architect J. F. Leitner aimed to avoid all useless ornamentation and to make the exterior show that the building is intended solely for banking purposes. In its decision to provide new quarters for the bank the conservative spirit which has always characterized the management of the company was made manifest; therefore, instead of constructing a building partly for use of the bank and partly for renting purposes, a single story, fireproof building was specified. There are no windows on either side, the light being obtained from skylight in the roof, and even in event of a great conflagration the bank's securities, as well as those of safe deposit patrons, would not be endangered by falling walls and burning debris. In the great Baltimore fire of 1904, the Safe Deposit and Trust Company (a single-story building) came thorugh unscathed, while the ground floor vaults of some of the tall office buildings sustained great losses.

The structure is carried by steel, reinforced concrete, and brick, the front of the building being of Indiana sandstone, with windows, doors and all trimmings of bronze. Carrying out the idea of a thoroughly fire-proof building, not an ounce of wood has been used in the main banking room, even the partitions and bookkeeper's desks being made of steel.

Entering from Princess street by three easy steps, an inspection will show an excellently proportioned room high pitched, well lighted, and artistically decorated. If the fabled somnambulist who 'dreamt he dwelt in marble halls," should happen into the vestibule of the new Wilmington Savings and Trust Co., building, he might be impressed with the realization of his dream. Not only are the walls and fixtures lined with imported Italian Skyros marble, but the floors are paved with marble brought from the quarries of Tennessee. The bank screen of cast bronze brightens the room, and accords pleasantly with the decorative effects furnished by the A. P. Giavanni Co., of Washington, D. C..

The vault, located in the middle of the banking room, is impressive in its massive security and has been the bank's one real extravagance. It is modeled after the vault of one of the great New York safe deposit companies, though smaller. Twelve inches of concrete, imbedded with steel rods, form the exterior. Then a lining of asbestos to insure protection against fire, and finally a lining of three-ply armor plates of steel, two inches thick, composed of separate layers of hardened Chrome, Bessemer and Manganese. The door is twelve inches thick, and is protected in day time by two combination locks, and at night by a triple time lock of latest improved design. The bank's security chests are divided from the safe deposit department by a heavy steel grille. It is the boast of the builders that a vault of this design has never been burglarized.

The arrangement of fixtures has been admirably designed and executed. Entering the front door, to the left is the ladies' department. A separate window has been set aside for their use, and only new, crisp bills are paid there.

The Wilmington Savings & Trust Co., was the first to inaugurate this idea here, though it has proven so popular that practically all the local banks now provide new money for their lady customers.

Back of the ladies' window is an enclosed room set apart entirely for their use. Private 'phone embossed stationery, etc., are provided for their convenience, and lavatory and toilet have been installed. The furniture is of handsome mahogany, while oriental rugs cover the floor.

Two tellers' windows confront one conveniently as he enters the front door, while the officers' desks are on the right hand side of fixtures. A private window has been located there for handling of notes, the sale or purchase of securities, or other business of a confidential nature.

A large room, elegantly fitted up in the rear will be used by the directors for their regular meetings, and will be placed at the service of the bank's patrons as a consultation or committee room at all times. It is the hope of the management that the public will use this room freely whenever a down-town meeting place is required.

Cozy, sanitary safe deposit booths have been arranged at the right of the vault, easily accessible to renters of boxes, and one can in them examine his papers or securities as privately and comfortably as at home.

In the basement is a second vault for storage of silver, furs, valuable bric-a-brac, or other articles too bulky for the smaller safe deposit boxes. The bank has also provided a thoroughly fireproof compartment for its old books and records. A modern hot water system of heating has been installed, as well as instantaneous phone system, which will permit of any department in the bank getting in instant communication with any other.

The location of the bank is in the heart of the "financial district", so to speak. Real estate and building and loan offices are practically all within a stone's throw from No. 110 Princess, while all suburban cars start directly in front of that number. The new building is only one-half square from the old Front street location, where the management has succeeded in six years in increasing its resources from $900,000 to the present total of over $2,000,000.

Much more could be said about the new building of the Wilmington Savings & Trust Company, but the wonderful business record of the company is deserving of at least a few words. Organized in 1888, with a paid-in capital of $25,000, the company has grown steadily until its capital now amounts to $100,000, and its surplus to over $200,000. In 1908, $75,000 of profits were used to increase the capital from $25,000 to $100,000. This went to stockholders in the shape of a very handsome dividend of 300 per cent. The present shares have a market value of upwards of 330, and on the basis of the original capitalization, this would mean that each original share of $100 is worth $1,320, in addition to which regular dividends ranging from 6 to 16 per cent. per annum have been paid in cash to shareholders. The company has $1,700,000 individual deposits—a larger line than the individual deposits of any other bank in North Carolina—National, State, or savings. It is a record of which every Wilmingtonian should feel proud, as few financial institutions in the entire country can equal this wonderful success.

In order to give its patrons an opportunity to inspect the new building the management has decided to keep the doors open on November 14th from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M., also in the evening, and a cordial invitation is extended to all—whether or not customers of the bank—to call and examine the building, vault and equipment. Lady patrons will be presented with an appropriate, though inexpensive souvenir at the special "Ladies' Window."

The officers of the company are Messrs. C. E. Taylor, Jr., president; H. Walters and J. W. Norwood, vice presidents; J. L. Williams, cashier, and W. H. Moore, assistant cashier. The directors are all men who have made a success in their own business, and are Messrs H. Walters, J. W. Norwood, C. E. Taylor, Jr., J. V. Grainger, J. W. Yates, William Calder, Henry C. Bear, Jas. H. Chadbourn, Dan'l H. Penton, H. L. Vollers, W. V. Hardin, D. O'Connor, Donald MacRae, J. D. Bellamy, Jr., and N. B. Rankin. The last named was chairman of the building committee appointed by the board of directors, and has rendered valuable service in the construction of the new building.

The Star bespeaks for the company in its new quarters a continuation of the prosperity and success which have made it conspicuous for many years past among the financial institutions of the State.

Meyersdale, Pa., Nov. 10.—Hundreds of enraged citizens surround the borough jail here tonight threatening to lynch Isiah Dorman, aged 22, a negro, who is alleged to have attacked Ethel Morgan, a white child, aged 9 years, last night. After making two attempts to get the negro to the county jail at Somerset, Pa., the authorities were compelled to rush the prisoner back to the borough jail. At each attempt the mob intercepted them and almost secured possession of the negro. At 9:30 they decided to barricade the jail and try to keep off the mob until reinforcements arrive.

HAS COME TO STAY

Dr. Moench Delighted With Wilmington and Will Locate Here

Editor Star:—Since my coming to Wilmington I have been encouraged every day to make my stay among the good people of Wilmington a permanent one. The press of Wilmington, the Y. M. C. A., and many of our prominent citizens, who have the educational welfare of the young people at heart, have assured me that there is room for a competent and reliable man in the line of my work, viz: the teaching of ancient and modern languages, coaching students for entrance examinations to colleges or universities, etc., right here in our community. I shall therefore, make an effort to succeed and as in my dictionary the word "defeat" is unknown, I shall, will and must succeed. My references, testimonials, etc., are first-class but the best testimonial, after all, is the Man himself, his everyuay life his character and the results of his work.

I have always tried to be a Christian gentleman and people here will find me such the longer they know me. Although a German by birth and education I have become thoroughly Americanized and in spirit and sentiment a thorough Southern citizen, with other words, a good Tar Heel. For the past months I worked hard in Europe to induce a class of industrious, good farmers to settle here in North Carolina and I have reasonably well succeeded in such endeavor. About tuis subject later more.

I am a teacher of long experience, know how to handle our American boys and girls and as at present all our college and High school positions are filled, I am compelled, therefore, to earn my existence by private teaching and tutoring, etc.—and here in Wilmington I shall do from now on such work.

I am connected with the Y. M. C. A., and shall do all I can to help along the educational lines of our young in connection with the Y. M. C. A. Besides this I shall teach private pupils, young ladies and gentlemen during day time or on vacant evenings. My terms are reasonable and in reach of everyone in search of an higher education. I teach German, French, Spanish, Latin and Greek and also other branches required for a better education. The entire High School faculty, many pupils of the High School, whom I taught during the absence of their language teacher; Dr. W. A. Snyder, the pastor of our Lutheran church; Supt. Blair, Mr. G. J. Boney, Mr. W. M. Cumming, Mr. F. H. Fechtig, Mr. J. G. L. Gieschen, German consul, and many of our clergymen and prominent citizens will speak a good word for me and vouch for my competency and character.

I am to be seen or addressed by letter at the Y. M. C. A. building or at my private residence, 15 North Seventh street, and will be glad to answer calls at any time. My professional card will be found in the columns of The Star and other publications. Trusting to receive a liberal patronage fro mour city in my undertaking, I am sincerely.,

VALUE OF FENCING

Stock Question Discussed by Mr William Crownstream

Editor Star:—With the talk of fairs and expositions in Wilmington why would it not be a good idea to have a few sample panels of rail fence and also a card showing the value of such a fence and, if posible, also show the value of the fences and the value of stock in fence law territory.

As it requires 1,000 fence rails to fence in one acre of land and a fence rail contains as much wood as a piece of timber, 10 feet long, four inches wide, by two inches thick or 6 2-3 square feet, therefore, it will require as much wood to fence in one acre of land with rail fence as is required to produce 6,666 2-3 square feet of lumber. Figuring the cost of lumber at $20 per 1,000 square feet, then the same amount of wood which is required to fence in one acre of land with rail fence, will, if it is sold as lumber, cost $133.32. It will cause immigrants to shun fence-law counties and it may open the eyes of some of our near-sighted lawmakers.

At any rate, no exposition would be complete without a few panels of rail that visitors can see under what disadvantage one-third of our North Carolina farmers work. As you doubtless know, more than two-thirds of North Carolina is under stock or no-fence law. Yours very truly,

WILLIAM CROWNSTREAM.

MR. SHIELDS TO PREACH.

A Revival Meeting, Harmony Church, Kerr, Dec. 11-19th.

Atkinson, N. C., Nov. 11. — Rev. McG. Shields, our Synodical evangelist, has very kindly consented to preach for us a whole week at Harmony church, Kerr, N. C., beginning on the second Sunday in December, 1911. Brother Shields will not be present on the second Sunday in December, but will be on hand Monday, after the Second Sunday. The pastor will preach at Harmony church on the second Sunday night in December, but will omit the morning service.

Brethren, let us pray God's richest blessings to rest upon us in this meeting, pray that God's spirit may come and revive Christian people, and convict and convert sinners. Pray that a great outpouring of God's spirit may be manifested in these meetings; for there are souls that need to be saved, and there are Christian people who need to be revived.

Yours very sincerely,

GOSSIP OF FOREIGN CAPITALS

After Tripoli, What Next, Asked at Berlin—Winemakers on the Rhine—Searching Among Ruins of Palestine.

(By Associated Press.)

Berlin, Nov. 11.—"After Tripoli, what next?" is the question which, according to despatches from Swiss correspondents of the German papers, is agitating the Swiss press and public.

Italy's seizure of Tripoli combined with the well known aspirations of the Italian nationalists to unite the Italian speaking portions of Switzerland with the Roman kingdom is causing, say these despatches, much discussion of the possibility that the little mountain republic may be a future object of the aggression of its southern neighbor.

Since the outbreak of the Tripolitan war various Swiss papers have pointed out the significance for Switzerland of this unexpected launching of hostilities and the seizure of a coveted province and have concluded from it the necessity of neglecting no steps to maintain at the highest possible efficiency the defences and fighting power of the country.

* * *

The part of Switzerland on which it is feared that Italy's eye may be turned is the canton of Ticino, on the Italian side of the Alps, known to thousands of tourists who have traveled over the St. Gothard railroad or visited the Italian Lakes. Its area is 1,088 square miles and its population nearly 150,000, practically all of them Italian speaking. Like the southern part of the Canton of Valais and the Engadine region of Eastern Switzerland, it is marked upon the maps and colored postcards of the Italian Irredentists (agitators for a united Italian empire) as one of the regions ultimately to be joined to Italy, but what has focused attention particularly on the Ticino is the vexation manifested in certain Italian quarters at the strong Swiss fortifications of the St. Gothard pass which dominate the Canton.

A series of articles on the importance of these fortifications by an Italian general has recently appeared in the Coriere della Sera of Milan, but Italian criticisms of the Swiss mistrust have rather increased than diminished the zeal with which the fortifications are being pressed.

In a recent article Dr. J. Schollenberger, professor of political science at the University of Zurich, maintains that Switzerland can expect little support from France and none from Italy, of the neutrality and integrity of Swiss territory. A possible combination in the minds of the Swiss pessimists is an Italian occupation of the Ticino, for which France would be compensated by the grant of Geneva, a town thoroughly French in language and sympathies.

* * *

Not only Switzerland but also Austro-Hungary, Italy's ally, is thinking of the possibilities of Italian aggression. Since Gen. Conrad has been at the head of the Austrian General Staff the fortification of the mountain valleys of the Tyrol along the Italian frontier has been carried on with unceasing energy until now every connecting pass and valley between the two countries is closed by powerful fortifications.

Now attention has been turned to the Stilfser Joch, a well known Alpine pass, situated at the junction of the frontiers of Austria, Italy and Switzerland. Over this a fine carriage road leads from Italy into Austria. The pass has hitherto been considered amply defended by the fact that the route passes for a distance of about eight miles across a narrow point of neutral Swiss territory, but since the construction by italy of a fartified camp at the foot of Monte Opa, both near the Italian end of the pass, and the extension of the Italian railroad to Bormio, a strong agitation has started for defensive measures on the Austrian side.

Italy's activity on this corner of her frontier is shown by the fact that mountain climbers are no longer allowed to ascend Monte or Piz Umbrail, one of the well known alpine ascents.

The wine makers on the Rhine and Moselle have just gathered their grapes with unusual demonstrations of satisfaction with the year's crop. When the church bells tolled in hundreds of villages to announce the beginning of the grape picking they awakened memories of the good old days of some ten years or more back, before the vineyards were damaged by phylloxera, worms and other pests; for this year the hot weather and the long cloudless days were death to the insects, but caused the vines to bear grapes of a sweetness almost without parallel.

And the quantity harvested was somewhat more than a half crop, which is regarded as a very good result in view of the continued failures of recent years. Owing to these failures grapes and grape juice are bringing extraordinarily high prices now. The best grapes are bringing as much as 45 cents per pound, and grape juice for wine making is sold at from 70 cents to $1 a gallon. The best juice at Bingen brought $2.45 a gallon. These are reported to be the highest prices ever known.

German makers of gas engines and chemists have been for several years working on the problem of gasifying peat for use in gas engines. The solution appears to have been found by an establishment in Gorlitz, which uses the so-called half-water-gas process, which is different from the Mond process used in England. The Germans call the product a suction gas, because the engine pumps in into itself, instead of it being forced into it under pressure. This new method of generating suction gas is said to give fire and one-half to six times the heat and power effect of Mond gas. The new process has now been in operation for several months, with the remarkable result that it yields as much power pound for pound from peat as can be created out of the best coal. This discovery has an enormous meaning for Germany, where there are not less than 5,000,000 acres of peat lands.

From the Holy Land.

Palestine, Nov. 11.—Capt. Montagu Parker, the head of the British Archaeological expedition, has again come and gone.

He returned true to his word given at the time of his hurried departure from Jerusalem last April after the unfortunate Mosque of Omar incident, that he would soon renew the excavations on the site of the ancient Zion. His departure two days later was at the earnest solicitation of friends who convinced him that the Moslem public was in no mood to entertain Europeans whose operations might involve the violation of places and relics held sacred by them.

Capt. Parker, who is a brother of Earl Morley, arrived at Jaffa on his private yacht early in October. He was accompanied by Clarence Wilson and several English laborers. They planned to proceed at once to Jerusalem and resume work in the underground passages on Mount Ophel.

As was the case before, the work was to be done under the supervision of government inspectors in accordance with the contract which Parker has with the Turkish government. The headquarters of the expedition were to be at Siloam, where they were when the work was interrupted by public clamor following reports that the strangers had bribed guards of the Mosque and obtained improper access to the building for the purpose of digging beneath its foundations.

Captain Parker was told by his friends that the bitter feeling engendered last Spring had not disappeared and moreover that because of the Turco-Italian war popular feeling against the intrusion of Europeans in general had been raised to a high pitch. They insisted that this resentment would be acute in the case of one like Parker, who had given offense only a few months ago, and that his stay would be fraught with unpleasant consequences if not with peril to his life.

After much persuasion the Captain was prevailed upon to postpone his mission for an indefinite period and with his party he set sail on October 6th.

Thus another attempt at the recovery of supposed buried treasures has been frustrated for the time being at least.

WINTER SPORTS AT PINEHURST

Tournament Season in Full Swing, Beginning With Thanksgiving Week. Golf, Trap Shooting and Tennis, and the Dates.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Pinenurst, N. C., November 11.—Thanksgiving week sets the tournament season in full swing at Pinehurst with few open dates upon the sporting calendar until May, golf, trap shooting and lawn tennis leading; in the events which now lay claim to national attention. The important additions of the summer are the perfection of the third eighteen-hole golf course, opened last winter, and the laying out of a hitherto unheard of fourth course. Polo has also been added to the diversified attractions, with fox hunting thoroughly established as the result of last winter's series of remarkable runs. Quail shooting has never been better, while baseball and other sports are claiming increasing attention.

The important tournaments of the year are the big golf meetings, including the ninth annual Midwinter, January 9-13th; eighth annual St. Valentine's, February 6-10th; eighth annual Spring, March 4-9th; and the tenth annual United North and South Amateur championships, March 25-April 6th.

Equally prominent are the fifth annual Midwinter Handicap trap shooting tournament, scheduled for January 24-27th, and the second annual Midwinter Tennis championship, which rounds out the week beginning January 29th.

The full program in outline follows:

Golf—November 23, 24, 25, eighth annual Autumn tournament; December 27, 28, 29, 30, eighth annual Holiday tournament; January 9, 19, 11, 12, 13, ninth annual Midwinter tournament; February 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, eighth annual St. Valentine's tournament; February 14, 15, 16, 17, sixth annual St. Valentine's tournament for women; March 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, eighth annual Spring tournament; March 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, tenth annual United North and South Amateur Championships for women; March 30, second annual Amateur Professional four-ball best-ball match; April 1st, twelfth annual "United" open Championship; April 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, twelfth annual "United" Amateur Championship; April 11, 12, 13, the fourth annual Mid-April tournament.

In addition to the Mid-Winter tournament, the Spring tournament will be conducted on the Pinehurst system, in which qualification is by classes. In all tournaments from two to ten sixteens are provided for with trophies for division winners and runners up, consolation division winners and the best qualification score.

Trap Shooting—The big card of the fifth annual Midwinter Handicap scheduled for January 24, 25, 26, and 27th, is the lavish added money, amounting to eighteen hundred and sixty dollars, and including five hundred dollars and cup to the Handicap winner; two hundred dollars and cup to the Preliminary winner, and gold and silver medals for high averages, with liberal provision in sweepstakes and money-back, under the personal management of Luther Squier. Weekly hundred-target trophy handicaps are booked from January 29 to March 25, with a gold medal for the season's high average. The pistol events include Club and State championships during the week of March 18th, and numerous handicaps.

Tennis—The second annual Mid-Winter championship, scheduled for the week of January 29, includes men's

ACTIVE WEEK IN INDUSTRIES

Enterprises Aggregating Millions of Dollars Reported to Manufacturers' Record Past Week—Many Undertakings.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Baltimore, Nov. 11.—The Manufacturers' Record in reviewing the industrial situation in the South for the week reports that more enterprises of great importance representing an aggregate investment running far into the millions of dollars have been reported this week than in any one week for some years.

From every part of the South, representing every line of industry, many great undertakings have been announced. These have involved the purchase of a number of large tracts of land, mineral, timber and agricultural, by outside investors. The establishment of new enterprises of unusual importance to the South, one representing an investment of over $500,000 for the manufacture of ethyl alcohol in Louisiana out of the waste pine products and sawdust of a big lumber plant, and another the establishment in Nashville of a motor car plant to have an output next year of 3,500 cars. The largest single enterprise reported which represents an outlay of probably considerably over $5,000,000, is the purchase by one of the big iron making concerns in Alabama, of another iron and coal company in that State, having two blast furnaces, 40,000 acres of coal land and 2,400 acres of iron ore land. This will be followed by large development operations, which will have a far-reaching effect upon the iron interests of that State.

The activity in the development of hydro-electric plants and the extension of electric light and power service to towns and cities in the Central South continues to be pushed with unabated energy, and in Georgia, Tennessee and other States developments of great importance have been reported during the week.

Eastern capitalists bought for about $250,000 a tract of reclaimed swamp land near New Orleans and will make this a model as to the possibilities of raising three or four crops a year on reclaimed soil, establishing in this connection soil laboratories and providing every needed facility to demonstrate what crops can be raised to best advantage and how marketed. Investors from Pennsylvania and other sections have purchased an aggregate of about 175,000 acres of coal land in eastern Kentucky in a region which is now probably the most active section of the United States in coal operations and coal mining development work.

Briefly detailed, some of the more important enterprises reported from the South during the past week indicative of the activity and the wide range of industrial operations in that section are as follows:

Woodward Iron Company, Woodward, Ala., has purchased the properties of the Birmingham Coal & Iron Company at a cost of several million dollars. These properties include 40,000 acres of coal and 2,400 acres of iron ore land, together with two blast furnaces located at Vanderbilt near North Birmingham. It is stated that the company will begin at once the expenditure of a large amount of money for betterments.

Georgia Light, Power & Railways, Macon, Ga., financed by New York bankers, has bought the controlling interest in the Macon Railway & Light Company, Central Georgia Power Co., and will own the stock of the new gas company, which recently requested a

Action of Country's Biggest Bank—Only One Woman In 100 Has Clean Face—World's Largest Generator

(Special Star Correspondence.)

New York, Nov. 11.—Business men and financiers alike are now busy discussing what is believed to be the most important development in the financial history of the country since the hectic days a decade ago of the famous Northern Securities situation, that is the voluntary decision of the National City Bank to dispose of its holdings of bank stocks. But while the Northern Securities decision then gave rise to many fears as to what its effect might be, the present situation is looked upon as being constructive and the belief is general that it will go far toward bringing about reforms in our currency system which it is now generally admitted are so much needed. Because of the fact that the National City Bank is the biggest bank on this side of the Atlantic and one of the biggest banks in the world, its voluntary action in yielding to the force of public opinion by abandoning its plan to control the shares of a chain of banks across the country through a holding company is peculiarly significant. That action in this matter has been voluntary is, of course, a great relief to the administration at Washington, but it is also extremely gratifying to plain business men and bankers all over the country who are keenly interested in the non-partisan movement to reform our panic-breeding banking system. One of the chief objections to the founding of a National Reserve Asociation for the banks of the country has been the fear that this institution might get into the clutches of big Wall street banking interests. It was feared that if a great Wall street bank would own the shares of many other banks throughout the country it could gain a dangerously large vote in the reserve Association. It is believed that the abandonment of the National City Bank's plan of controlling other banks is a long step toward the proposed reform of our banking system in the interest of the every-day business of the country.

Four hundred and ninety-five out of five hundred women who attended a lecture here the other day on the art of keeping beautiful were rudely shocked when they were literally told to go home and wash their faces. The other five presumably were supposed to have perfectly clean faces for the lecturer announced that in New York only one woman in one hundred has a really clean face, and proceeded to add insult to injury by informing her audience that women do not know how to keep their faces clean anyhow and proceeded to give them instructions in this art. Men's faces are generally cleaner, the lecturer said, because of the lather used in shaving. In fact, the expected information on all sorts of secret lotions and treatments did not materialize, the lecture taking the form chiefly of a eulogy of soap and water. The lecturer's picture of New York women was not at all complimentary to either. "They get themselves up as if for moving picture shows," she told her audience. "They powder their noses until they are perfectly white as if they had been daubed with flour and then they pile on rouge and set forth for the matinee looking like frights." A small-sized riot occurred at the end of the lecture in the form of an indignation meeting at which the lecturer was denounced as "perfectly horrid."

This city now has the distinction of being the home of the largest electric generator in the world. The gigantic turbine, capable of operating over a million sixteen candle power incandescent lights was set in motion for the first time this week and marks a notable development in electric lighting equipment, as well as another step in the movement of concentration for economical purposes that is rapidly taking place among all lines of utilities. The possibilities of a million electric lights can better be comprehended when one realizes that this number is adequate to furnish sufficient illumination for the national capitol. A chain of bulbs placed twenty-five feet apart and reaching entirely around the globe could be operated by this gigantic generator, could the problem of resistance be annihilated, while it could form the sole supply of illumination for a great white way connecting New York and Boston. Thirty thousand horse power is the estimated capability of the turbine, this being eight thousand horse-power in excess of that formerly the largest in the world.

Another American institution in the form of the now almost universal tip is in danger. Sporadic efforts to do away with the evil in the past have met with little success, but the present movement appears to have more strength since it is to be carried on by the waiters themselves. If such a thing is possible the profession of the waiter is to be reformed and elevated by a self-instituted and voluntary attack upon the present far-reaching tipping system. Two of the gentry have undertaken to publish a journal in which they may voice their discontent with present conditions and insist on fixed and agreed wages sufficient to obviate the necessity of eking them out by means of the open-palm method. It is a question whether they will obtain the undivided support of their fellow knights of the dicky and white apron, in the light of the alarming statistics on record going to show the colossal proportions of this fund that is contributed toward their support by New York's long-suffering diners out. The waiter who recently sold for $10,000 a piece of property acquired from his earnings as a waiter in a fashionable Broadway hotel during two years, for instance, will think twice before helping in a movement to slaughter the golden egg-laying goose. It is interesting to note, however, that the first concerted action comes from the side of the men who receive the tips rather than those who give them. As to the reception that will be accorded the movement by the hotel and restaurant keeprs who under the present regime are able

CONSECRATION OF CHURCH

Red-Letter Day for Episcopal Church In Burlington

Burlington, N. C., Nov. 9.—Judging from the congregation present and the number of people that had to be turned away, it would appear that most of the people in Burlington turned out on Sunday, November 5th, to witness the consecration of the magnificent new Episcopal church. The church is built of Mt. Airy granite with an imposing Gothic tower 18 feet ssquare and 70 feet in height. The nave is 40 feet wide by 70 feet long with an open roof 40 feet to the apex supported by arched timbers. It has three aisles and will seat 400 people, with an 8-foot crossing from tower entrance and ample space in front of the chancel. The chancel is 24 feet wide by 32 feet deep. The altar is properly elevated, there being seven steps in all from the floor of the nave. The chancel is lighted by triple windows on each side, the east wall being occupied by a reredos surmounted by a triple window of the Annunciation, Ascension and Resurrection. To the right of the chancel is the organ chamber, containing the new two-manuel pipe organ, which delighted all and sustained the reputation of the Estey Organ Co. To the left of the chancel is the extension containing the sacristy, clergy room, choir room, etc. The large west window represents Christ blessing little children. It is a noble and inspiring building in every detail; indeed, it is one of the very finest church buildings in the State. The interior finish is in dark oak (real oak). The pews and choir stalls are also of oak, the whole interior finish and arrangement are perfectly harmonious and strikingly dignified. The beautiful church and the splendid lot on which it stands were given by Mr. Lawrence S. Holt, Sr., and his wife, Mrs. Margaret Erwin Holt, as a loving memorial to their little daughter, Emily Farish. It is appropriately named the Church of the Holy Comforter.

This noble gift to God will always be a joy and comfort to the generous donors, and will but enhance their happiness and joy when they shall have entered into the nearer presence of the King. Long after they shall have been gathered home, will be standing there in its stately and imposing proportions, witnessing to God and His truth, the symbol of evangelical truth, and Apostolic Faith and Order. What the splendid building cost is known only to God and the generous donors. It certainly must have cost at least $50,000. Especially if we include the site on which it stands. Besides the building and the two large windows given by the donors, there are several memorials: A window given by Mr. Manly Baker and his sister, Mrs. E. L. Williamson, as a memorial to their father and mother. A window by Mrs. Willis L. Bryant, in memory of her husband. A processional cross given by Mr. and Mrs. James H. Holt, as a memorial to their little daughter, Olive, and a beautiful receiving sterling silver alms basin given as a memorial to Mrs. Holt's father; an exquisite chalice and paten given by Mrs. Margaret Holt Lowry, Mrs. Florence Holt Brooks, Mrs. Bertha Holt Clark, as a memorial to Elizabeth Hill Holt, wife of Lawrence S. Holt, Jr., who also gave as a memorial a white set of exquisitely embroidered altar vestments of churchly teachableness.

The music of the vested choir of 37 voices was a feature of the service. vice. The choir master and organist, surely deserves unstinted praise and commendation. Mr. H. Seton Blyth came to the parish only a few months ago. He found a very small choir. He has formed this splendid choir and trained them within the past few months. No such musical programme was ever heard in the town as that which this choir rendered at the Consecration Service.

The procession entered the church singing the inspiring strains of "Rise Crowned With Light, Imperial Salem, Rise." The Bishop and other clergy followed the choir repeating alternately the 24th Psalm. The visiting clergy were: The venerable Archdeacon Osborne, of Charlotte, the Rev. Thomas L. Trott, of Durham; the Rev. George W. Lay and the Rev. Milton A. Barber, of Raleigh; the Rev. Walter J. Smith, of Charlotte, and the Rev. S. J. Brown, of Cooleemee. The petition for consecration was read by Mr. S. A. Steele, secretary and treasurer of the parish, the instrument of donation, viz: the title deed conveying the property to the Diocese, was read by Mr. F. L. Williamson, junior warden. Standing on the second choir step, Mr. Lawrence S. Holt, Sr., requested the Bishop as president of the trustees of the Diocese, to accept the gift of the church and lot; the Bishop in well chosen words accepted the legal documents and solemnly placed them on the altar. One provision of the conveyance of the property of the Diocese, was that the pews should never be rented or sold. The instrument of donation was read by the Rev. Walter J. Smith. The consecration sermon was preached by the Right Rev. Joseph Blount Cheshire, D. D., Bishop of the Diocese. The offering at the consecration service, which was quite generous, will be used in placing in the church a suitable memorial of the consecration of the building. An interesting feature of the morning service was the baptism of little Rufus Wheelwright Clark, the infant grandson of the donors of the beautiful church. The water used, was brought by the grand parents from the river Jordon in Palistine. At the night service the Bishop made his annual visitation of th parish, and confirmed a class of nine members presented by the faithful and indefatigable rector, the Rev. John Benners Bibble. The sermon at this service, was preached by the Rev. Milton A. Barber, a former rector of the parish. The church at this service was also crowded to the doors. It was a great and glorious day for the Episcopal church in Burlington. With the splendid equipment which the parish now has, we feel that a new day has dawned for this old Apostolic church of the Anglo Saxon race.

SERMONETTES

(By T. W. Chambliss).

"And the man shall be as a hiding place from the wind, and a covert from the tempest; as rivers of water in a dry place, as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land." Isaiah xxxii:2.

In keeping with the original language of this passage the definite article is used—the man, rather than the indefinite articles—a man. Reference is not to any man to be chosen at random, but to the man. "The man" of our text is the same as the king of the first verse. So much is said concerning this remarkable personality as to awaken in us profound interest in his identity. That there should be anywhere so commanding a personality as to furnish in himself a refuge for the storm-tossed among men, to refresh the thirsty, and shelter the weary, is a fact calculated to bring peace and help, and a strong sense of security to multitudes. We all feel the need of such a comprehensively sufficient being. Here, if we can discover his identity, is the man for the times. So many men, as good and clever as we love to think ourselves to be, are drawn into the deadly whirlpool of ruin in body, soul, and estate, that we sometimes wonder when our turn may come, and, if it come, whither we can turn for help, when the desperation of the case forces us to look for it.

Not a man of us but loves to lean on strong personalities; and there are strong characters in every age, with largeness of resources, and gifted with superiority of mind, or moral nature, or both, as easily to make them leaders, and they are expected to prove their unusual competency in some exaggerated stress of emergency. But too often this expectation is broken by the appearance of weakness that was not anticipated, and the desperation of our disappointment almost drives us mad.

What is human is apt to break down under increased weight. "The man" of our text not so. These words, describing him, leave us to believe him equal to any demand that we can lay upon him. Read the words over again. "The Man" of our text, then, must be a man of destiny. He must decide the fate of mankind; must be the director of the world's history. The focus of all our expectations of greatness is here in "the man." Show me one who meets the description of our text and I will show you one whose disclosure means a new hope and a new life for all who have the vision to see him. Greater than He, there can be none! Hence I lay down this proposition: Whatever may be affirmed or denied of men may or may not be affirmed or denied of the Man. The Man differs in many particulars from men. He is like men in being man, but unlike men in His power of achievement. He is unique. His uniqueness makes Him the hope of the race. We therefore ask, Who is He? Our first desire must be to discover His identity.

An extended study of the first 31 chapters of this prophecy of Isaiah leads us at once to the conclusion that the reference cannot be to any man who may be chosen at random, or to any person contemporary with the inspired writer. Our text gives in display headings the biography of the Man. These headings are comprehensive and expressive. Now the burden of the prophecy through the 31 chapters is against putting trust in men, as in the last verse of the second chapter. This note becomes clearer through following chapters, till it eventuates in a woe pronounced on those who go down to Egypt for help, and trust in horsemen because they are strong, but look not unto the Holy One of Israel, neither seek the Lord.

Some have supposed, also, that there is in our text a reference to the mighty being of Assyria, but this cannot be, because that being disappears in the eighth and ninth verses of the 31st chapter. We must look elsewhere.

In establishing the identity of the man we must remember the tone of the previous warning against putting trust in men, and yet be faithful to the recommendation of the text, to put trust in "the Man", for if He be all that the text says He is, it is the highest wisdom to trust Him. As we study the text, we say "the Man" is human. He is man. We also say He is divine prerogatives; He must therefore be divine.

When we were in school we learned that things which are equal to the same thing are equal to each other. Now in this Book of Books, our Bible, we have the Being of God, "the Man" of our text, and language of a similar character common to both. Some things descriptive of God are also descriptive of "the Man." The language used is the common factor.

In our text "the Man" is described as "a hiding place from the wind, a covert from he tempest." But in the 25th chapter of this same prophecy we read, in connection with the prophet's confession of faith in God: "Thou has been a refuge from the storm." In the two texts the common factor is the language employed, applied to God and to "the Man". We conclude, therefore, that "the Man" possesses and exercises divine prerogatives, and hence is God.

Again in our text, "the Man" is said to be "as rivers of water in a dry place." But in the 63rd Psalm we read another confession of faith in God: "Oh, God, thou art my God; early will I seek thee; my soul thirstest for thee in a dry and weary land where no water is." In Psalm cviii: "My soul thirsteth after thee as a thirsty land." In Psalm xlii: "As the hart panteth after the water brooks, so panteth my soul after thee, oh God. My soul thirsteth for God." Here the common factor of similar language is found.

We conclude that "the Man" possesses and exercises divine prerogatives; that He is God.

Again in our text "the Man" is said to be "as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land." But in Psalm xviii we read: "The Lord is my rock. My God is my strong rock; in Him will I trust." Also, Psalm xxxi:1-2; x:1-2; xlii:9. Here once more is the common factor, and we conclude that "the Man" possesses and exercises divine prerogatives; that He is therefore divine; hence is God.

We have here then, a God-man. He is human, He is divine. Now, with this in mind, what character in history will best fill the anonymous niche indicated by "the Man"? Think of Paul, Augustine, Charlemagne, Savonarola; or of philosophers, as Plato, Kant, Hopkins; or of litterati, as Homer, Virgil, Shakespeare, Milton; or of scientists as Galileo, Kepler, Grey, or of generals, as Moses, Julius Caesar, Bonaparte, Havelock, Gordon, Grant; or of the greatest kings or statesmen of all times. Of which one of these, or of all of them, could you use the language of our text? Such an application is impossible.

One day Napoleon was sitting in a reflective mood in his exile to St. Helena, when he suddenly exclaimed: "I know men, but Jesus Christ is not a man." In those words I give express to our discovery of the identity of "the Man" of our text. He is the Lord Jesus Christ. Now apply the words of our text to Him, and how appropriate they are, though the prophet saw not Christ; yet by the prophet the Holy Spirit speaketh of Him. Read with me the text thus:

"Jesus Christ shall be as a hiding place from the wind, and a covert from the tempest; as rivers of water in a dry place, as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land."

We have reason to believe that Jesus Christ is our refuge amid the pitiless storms of life. We have reason to believe that Jesus Christ is "as rivers of water in a dry place." Has He not said: "Whoso drinketh of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst?" Christian faith responds: "Come, thou fount of every blessing," etc., and "Jesus the water of life will give." Again, we have reason to believe that Jesus Christ is "as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land." Maybe He is the very rock that casts the shadow. He is the Rock of Ages, and Christian faith sings:

"Rock of Ages, cleft for me,
Let me hide myself in Thee."

Let no man try to escape from Christ, but escape to Christ. Always at hand to help and save, amid the sorrows and sins of human life Jesus Christ today is the man for the times. Find in Him all you need for time and eternity. He saves from sin, from its power, its guilt and its doom. He has said to you: "Let not your heart be troubled; believe in God, believe also in Me."

Woman's Power Over Man

Woman's most glorious endowment is the power to awaken and hold the pure and honest love of a worthy man. When she loses it and still loves on, no one in the wide world can know the heart agony she endures. The woman who suffers from weakness and derangement of her special womanly organism soon loses the power to sway the heart of a man. Her general health suffers and she loses her good looks, her attractiveness, her amiability and her power and prestige as a woman. Dr. R.V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N.Y., with the assistance of his staff of able physicians, has prescribed for and cured many thousands of women. He has devised a successful remedy for woman's ailments. It is known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a positive specific for the weaknesses and disorders peculiar to women. It purifies, regulates, strengthens and heals. Medicine dealers sell it. No honest dealer will advise you to accept a substitute in order to make a little larger profit.

The Chrysanthemum Show

Tenth Annual Government Exhibit in Washington, as Described by Red Buck — Important Conference to be Held Soon in Washington.

Washington, Nov. 7.—The tenth annual Government Chrysanthemum Show, which opened in the propagating gardens of the Department of Agriculture, closed here Sunday night, after a most busy week. More than 10,000 persons saw the flowers exhibited.

"We showed 1,600 plants in eight-inch pots," said Horticulturist McClelland to the Star correspondent today. "Some of the plants were seven feet high and some of the flowers nine inches in diameter. We had 104 of the large Japanese variety.

"The purpose of this show is to educate the people to grow the finest plants. Hundreds of Washington men and women are producing fine plants and flowers."

Fifty odd varieties on exhibit this year are new and beautiful specimens. The new varieties represent not only the work of the government horticulturists but that of the growers of the entire country and a portion of Europe. The show is one of the most complete and magnificent ever given in America.

Red, white, yellow and pink are the prevailing colors, but there is a generous display of the red and yellow mixture, known by the horticulturists as the bronze type.

New varieties and their names are interesting. For the first time no official names were used in christening new flowers this year. Heretofore one of the features of the annual shows has been the reading and commenting upon names which were on the public lip. Of course there were "President Taft," "Colonel Roosevelt," "Mrs. Taft" and "Mrs. Roosevelt" flowers, but they are several years old.

The tallest plant, one that reaches almost to the roof of the hot house in which the chrysanthemums were shown, is a "President Taft." The once beautiful blossom that capped "President Taft" was blackened and wilted by hot water from the pipes that warm the building. It looked like a crestfallen giant.

"Mrs. Roosevelt" did not do well this year. It failed to develop into its splendor of former years.

"Colonel Roosevelt" was hidden from the public gaze by the towering "President Taft," "Miss Alice Lemon," "F. E. Nash," "William Turner" and others.

Some of the new varieties shown by Mr. McClelland won admiration from one and all. A few of them deserve special mention.

The "G. C. Kelly" is a very large chrysanthemum, old rose in color, with a silvery reverse, with beautiful form and delicate appearance.

The "William Turner" is a pure white, with a true Japanese reflex, and petals that hang and meet the foliage. It buds the last of August.

The "Harry E. Converse", a chestnut crimson with a bronze reverse, is a perfect ball of bronze when in its full glory. It is grand and magnificent, with a long stem.

The "Lady Carmichael" has a pure white flower, luxuriant foliage and a stem like iron.

The "F. T. Quittenton" is a crimson in color.

Mr. McClelland thinks that the "F. E. Nash", a light pink Japanese, is one of the most attractive plants exhibited this year. It has a flower that measures nine inches through from side to side.

The "Alice M. Flagler" is a delicate white, Japanese incurved, with perfect stem and foliage.

The "Poughkeepsie," a creamy white Japanese, has eight-inch blossoms.

The "Lenox," one of the favorites of the show, is a large, bright yellow flower with lighter reverse.

The "Morristown" has a pretty rose-colored bloom; the "Tarrytown" a light pink with a slight tinge of salmon; the "Alice Lemon" a light soft pink; "Miss Alice Finch" a purple crimson; the "Driftwood" a remarkably fine specimen of sulphur yellow; the "Mary Farnsworth" light golden pink, showing buff on reverse, and the "Glacier," a pure white.

Other fine flowers are the "Frances Jouliffe," "Mary Poulton," "A. King Clark," "William H. Thornton," "White Queen," "Mrs. Trevor Williams," "Pioneer," "M. Wood Mason," "Rose Ellis," "Onunda" and the "Roman Gold."

The chrysanthemum, Mr. McClelland says, originated in China. It was brought to this country more than 20 years ago. There are thousands of varieties. Hundreds of cities have annual shows. Millions of homes have chrysanthemum beds, and take pride in producing fine flowers. The government is trying to encourage the development of varieties.

An important conference between representatives of the Office of Information, Department of Commerce and Labor, and, representatives of State boards of Agriculture, Immigration and Labor, has been arranged for November 16th and 17th, in this city. Terence V. Powderly, chief of the Office of Information, has been corresponding for weeks with the heads of these boards in the several States, and already has received acceptances from one or more representatives of a majority of them.

Practically every State in the Union will be represented at the conference, which was proposed primarily for the purpose of bringing about co-operation between the Office of Information and various State bodies. The business of the Office of Information is to impart to incoming immigrants knowledge respecting regions where profitable work can be had. Mr. Powderly is most largely interested in locating immigrants on farms or sending them into sections of the country where farm labor is in demand. One purpose in this is ot divert the incoming tide of immigration from the congested centers of population, where, ordinarily, the labor market is glutted.

In the past there has been a lack of co-operation, due, to a large extent, to lack of knowledge of the work and aims of the Federal Office of Information. Secretary Nagel and other officials of the Department of Commerce and Labor, are keenly interested in bringing about effective co-operation between the Federal and State offices, which have common interest in labor problems. Representatives of some free employment agencies also have been invited to be present at the conference. Secretary Nagel will deliver an address to the delegates.

No fixed programme will be arranged for the conference, beyond the general subject of co-operation. Every delegate has been requested to come to Washington prepared to express his views and to make suggestions regarding the work of the Office of Information. It was thought best not to have a set programme with speakers assigned in advance to discuss specified subjects. This, it is believed, will make the conference more attractive.

It is for the purpose of determining the best means of bringing about effective co-operation that the conference was called. A final letter is now being addressed to the various State officials who have been corresponding with Mr. Powderly, with a view to ascertaining exactly how many delegates may be expected and, so far as known, who they will be.

Officials of several of the Southern States already have sent in their acceptances. Acceptances also have been received from California and Oregon and other States far removed from the national capital. The time and place for holding the conference were left to officials of the several States, and a majority voted for Washington and approximately the date fixed.

It is expected that New York State will be represented by a woman—Miss Frances A. Kellar, chief investigator of the Bureau of Labor and Industrial Conditions. Miss Kellar is well known to sociological workers and students and has made many important investigations. John Williams, State Commissioner of Labor, wrote Mr. Powderly that he had turned over to Miss Kellar the invitation to attend the conference.

One difficulty that stands in the way of State labor and immigration officials attending such a conference is the fact that no funds are available for work outside of their States.

Mr. Powderly is confident that important results will follow the conference.

North Carolina should be represented at this conference.

That the business of the five and ten-cent stores throughout the country amounts to enough to warrant merging a large number of them into one of the country's largest corporations, contrary to the generally tendency to consider them an almost negligible quantity in the business world shown here this week when the consolidation of more than 600 of these stores was announced. The capital stock of the new organization is $65,000,000 of which $15,000,000 will be 7 per cent. preferred and $50,000,000 common stock. The merger will take in more than 600 stores doing business in the United States, Canada and England, according to the plans now under way. Probably never in the history of business have so many small concerns been merged in to such a large corporation, which in spite of its size its originators say will not be a monopoly. In many ways it is one of the most curious and interesting mergers on record.

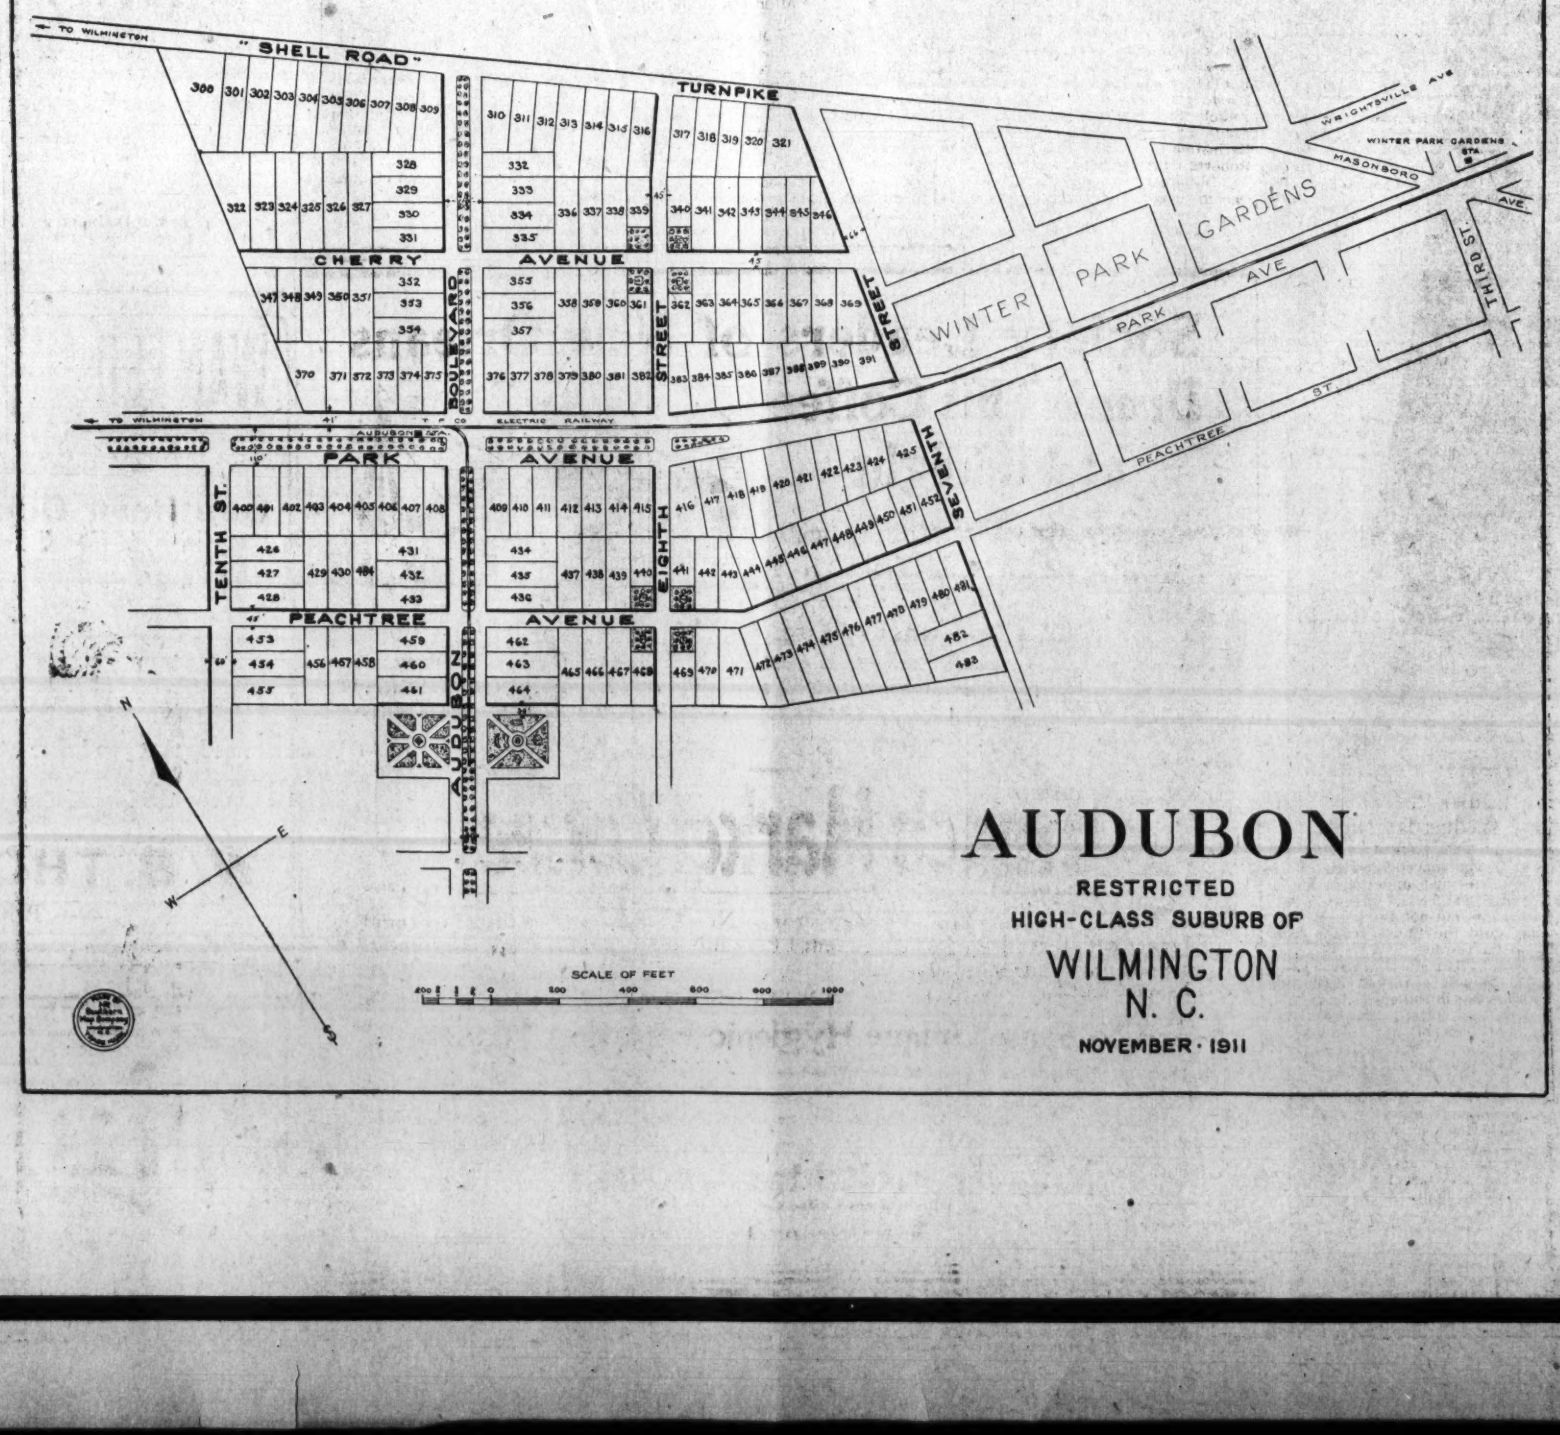
"Luck Is Being Prepared to Take Advantage of an Opportunity"



THEATRICAL

The Academy will offer only one attraction the present week, but that one will be of sufficient brilliancy to make up for lack of number. It will be the Aborn's massive production of "The Bohemian Girl," Wednesday night, and it will be one of the most notable events in Wilmington's theatrical history. In addition to something like one hundred people, several cars loaded with scenery and effects the attraction carries it own trained horses for the immense production. Seats for the performance will go on sale at Plummer's Tuesday morning, the scale running to $2. The seats down stairs will be divided between $2 and $1.50 prices.

This up-to-date revival of Balfe's masterpiece which proved one of the truly great successes of last season, must not be confounded with any previous production of this opera in America. The Aborn Opera Company in this particular case is said to have prepared an ensemble of extraordinary magnitude and brilliancy, enlisting the services of a full grand opera complement of upwards of one hundred people for this, their twentieth century revival, of the Paris version (in English) of "The Bohemian Girl," especially prepared for the famous operatic festival of the French Second Empire of 1869 and which won for the brilliant Irish composer, Michael William Balfe, the decoration of Chevalier of the Legion of Honor, bestowed upon him by Napoleon III. No expense has been spared in providing a lavish stage environment.

And all the exquisite lyric gems, including those fine old airs, "Then You'll Remember Me," 'I Dreamt I Dwelt in Marble Halls," "The Heart Bowed Down," etc., are promised with a stage spectacle of great magnitude—into which many novel and up-to-date features have been skillfully introduced, among the original scenes are a Fair or Kermess of Old Bohemia, presenting a characteristic array of troubadours, dancing girls, fortune tellers, a troupe of real Tzgani or Gypsy acrobats, a concakado of horses, etc. The highly dramatic episode of the Gypsy Chief's escape over the mountains with the stolen child, and the cavaliers in full pursuit on horseback is said to be thrilling, while a faithful reproduction of the grand salon of the Marble Palace of Count Arnheim, with seductive ballet, "The Dance of the Hours" from "La Gioconda," given as a concluding divertisement of an evening's fete, are almost pleasing as are the beatiful musical numbers of this grand lyric drama sung by the following soloists. Blanche Morrison and Anna Hull in the soprano role of Arline at alternate performances; Hattie Belle Ladd, as the Gypsy Queen; John R. Phillips, as Thaddeus; Harry Luckstone, as Count Arnheim; George Shields, as Devilshoof, and Augustus Vaughan, as Florestein.

"The Thief."

"The Thief," that powerfully gripping drama of a woman who steals in order to make herself attractive in the eyes of her husband, produced two years ago at the Lyceum Theatre, New York, will be seen at the Academy in the near future.

It tells the story of Richard Voysin and his wife, comparatively poor, who are visiting their rich friends, Raymond La Gardes and Madame La Gardes. There is a son, Ferdinand La Gardes, who is in love with Madame Voysin. She laughs at his boyish passion. A thief steals 21,000 francs from Madame La Gardes. All indications point to Ferdinand, the son, and in a remarkable dramatic scene he admits the theft. Then follows the second act—in many ways the most remarkable act ever seen on an American stage. But two people are on the stage, Richard Voysin and his wife, the chief characters in this overwhelming dramatic gem. From lightness to love, the husband assisting his wife in removing her wraps preparatory to retiring, the scene develops until the wife, questioned by the husband as to the source whereby she is to buy gowns and undergarments of such costly texture, is forced to confess that she and not the son of their friends, stole the 21,000 francs from Madame La Gardes.

She pleads that she took the money to make herself beautiful, attractive and interesting in the eyes of her husband who has often admired the gowns and hats of her friends. So deeply did she love him that the level of the theft was not too low for her to sink to please him. He criticises her severely and threatens to leave her. Then follows a scene which cannot be described in words. It must be seen to be appreciated. The third act depicts her public confession and her decision to start life anew with her husband in South America, he being so disgraced through his wife's sin that he decides to leave the country.

From curtain to curtain "The Thief" holds the spectator in a grip of steel, not only by the strength of its story and its great human appeal, but by the many surprising twists of the plot and the numerous scenes which call for acting of the highest calibre.

Harmony Concert Company

Expressions of interest in the coming of the Harmony Concert Company, the next number of the Boys' Brigade Lyceum Course, are heard on every hand for the reputation of this company is of the very highest. Each member is an artist in his or her chosen part, and the company, whether considered in relation to the individual excellence of the artists or from the standpoint of the ensemble effect, will rank among the best of the standard concert companies.

Novelty cannot be ascribed to it but ability and excellence certainly can. The programme will consist of soprano and tenor solos and duets voices with violin and piano accompaniment, violin solos and readings, all presented by artists of brilliant achievement and success. The following from the Kansas City Journal is of interest:

"Kansas City is to contribute another Parkina or Nielson to the ranks of grand opera in the person of Miss Pearl Collins, whose very interesting concert at the Casino on Friday evening was a revelation of broadened powers prophesied by infrequent previous appearances. Miss Collins sang a very choice programme, of which the two operatic numbers were the distinct features. These were the exacting florid aria, 'Ah, fors elui' from 'La Traviata,' and the mad scene from 'Hamlet.' So far as memory recalls, the latter has never been sung here, certainly not by a local singer. The two served admirably to bring out the bell-like beauty of Miss Collins' pure soprano, which has a really remarkable range. In both the arias she took high D with ease and clarity. In oratorio singing Miss Collins has also shown her capacity and her 'Let the Bright Seraphim' from Handel's 'Samson' was an excellent example. Other numbers were Bischoff's 'Love Sings the Lark,' Salter's 'Come to the Garden, Love,' Brooks' 'The Vision,' Bacholet's 'Dearest Night,' Gounod's 'The Spring,' Tipton's 'Tho' You Forget,' Aylward's 'One Summer Morning,' Chadwin's 'Thou Art So Like a Flower' and Lehma's 'Come Dance the Romaika.'"

The programme will be made up of some of the following numbers:

Sothern and Marlowe Honored by Drama League.

E. H. Sothern and Julia Marlowe, who appear here later in the season, have been requested by the Drama League, of Evanston, Ill., to officiate at the annual commemoration of Shakespeare's birthday, on April 23, next.

The Drama League has arranged to present medals to children who shall have written the most original and interesting papers on themes from the poet's plays. These medals, ten in number, will be the gift of American actors and actresses, to be presented to the children at the Partridge statue of Shakespeare in Lincoln Park, Chicago, on the afternoon of the birthday.

Mr. Sothern and Miss Marlowe, who will be playing in Chicago during birthday week, have been requested, and have consented, to bestow the medals.

It is the purpose of the committee appointed by the Drama League, to interest a large number of Chicago children of foreign extraction. Topics will be assigned to them, having to do with certain foreign characters in the plays. The purpose of this competition is, of course, to encourage intelligent reading of the poet, at a time of their lives when their minds are most receptive.

The festival project has met with very considerable interest and enthusiasm. It is the purpose of the committee appointed by the Drama League, that these ceremonial observances should be as simple and spontaneous as possible. It is to be left to the children to provide such pageantry, music, dance and dumb show as they shall see fit to devise. The children, however, will be trained by men and women of experience.

It is estimated taat upwards of a thousand children will participate in this festival. The committee is to provide the children with subjects pertaining to the plays of Shakespeare that they are to deal. These topics are to be definite, simple and alluring. They will not be expected to treat of subjects which only adept students of Shakespeare would be familiar.

The Bijou.

The Bijou ended another most successful week last night in a blaze of glory, that brought delight to immense sized audiences and gladness to the hearts of the clever managers of the attractive pioneer theatre. Now for another week, and it is going to be the best yet, and that is saying tons in praise of the offerings for this week. The list of films for this week and also the musical successes are the biggest and most delightful of all, as Bijou devotees will agree after they have reveled in the enjoyment of the daily shows. One feature alone of tomorrow's bill will be something extraordinary. It will be Pathe's Weekly, which is really an animated newspaper, and those who see it will get a chance of seeing the Italian troops preparing to move to Tripoli, Eugene Ely, the daring aviator recently killed, as he made his sensational "dip."

Mr. Morgan Returns.

It will certainly be good news to patrons of The Grand Theatre to know that on Monday evening Mr. Harry Morgan will return to the playhouse for a return engagement, which his friends hope will be indefinite. He is pleasantly remembered as having been the first singer at The Grand and will be heard again with rare interest. In moving pictures there will be films three, everyone a topliner. "His First Long Trousers," is a Selig, an airy, breezy comedy of schoolboy days. This picture will be especially enjoyed by the school children and many a grown-up will allow his mind to revert to those days—not so far back—when he, too, might as well have been the subject of the artist's sketch. On the same reel is an interesting travel sketch, one of the famous Selig features that will prove interesting as well as educational. "For the Sake of the Tribe," will be another big and interesting feature, and the prices are always of the same, small, don't-miss-it character.

A Permanent Cure For Chronic Constipation

Although those may dispute it who have not tried it, yet thousands of others, who speak from personal experience, assert that there is a permanent cure for chronic constipation. Some testify they were cured for as little as fifty cents, years ago, and that the trouble never came back on them, while others admit they took several bottles before a steady cure was brought about.

The remedy referred to is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It has been on the market for over a quarter of a century and has been popularized on its merits, by one person telling another. The fact that its strongest supporters are women and elderly people—the ones most persistently constipated—makes it certain that the claims regarding it as a permanent cure for constipation have not been exaggerated.

It is not violent like cathartic pills, salts or waters, but operates gently, without griping and without shock to the system. It contains tonic properties that strengthen the stomach and bowel muscles so that in time medicines of all kinds can be dispensed with and naturo is again solely relied on. Among the legions who testify to these facts are Mr. E. Garraux, 337 Ga. Ave., Atlanta, Ga., and Mrs. Lula Osborne, Seneca, S. C., and they always have a bottle of it in the house, for it is a reliable laxative for all the family from infancy to old age.

Anyone wishing to make a trial of this remedy before buying it in the regular way of a druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a large bottle (family size) can have a sample bottle sent to the home free of charge by simply addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 405 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Your name and address on a postal card will do.

WEEK'S NEWS IN ROBESON

Farmers' Union Educational Rally Big Success—Court and Other Matters—News and Other Incidents of Interest

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Lumberton, N. C., Nov. 11.—The Farmers' Union Educational Rally held here yesterday was a great success, notwithstanding the fact that the day was anything but promising up to about noon. The crowd in attendance was much larger than was expected by many, but of course, was nothing to compare with a similar occasion last year.

Those who attended the rally yesterday seemed to thoroughly enjoy the day and everything passed off pleasantly. The speaking was held at the Court House, beginning at 11:30, the address of welcome being delivered by Mr. L. R. Varser, Mr. K. M. Barnes, responding. Governor Kitchin, who delivered the principal address, was introduced by Mr. R. D Caldwell. Assistant Secretary Hayes, of the Department of Agriculture, was introduced by Prof. Stacy, of Rowland. Congressman Godwin introduced Hon. C. G. Elliott, chief of the drainage department. All the addressos were received with close attention. The Parkton Band was present and added much to the pleasure of the occasion by furnishing splendid music.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. B. McLeod, had as their guests at dinner all the speakers, and the band and several other prominent gentlemen. When Mr. and Mrs. McLeod fail to give their visitors a good time, it's no use for others to try. In the afternoon the band gave a delightful concert on the lawn of Mr. McLeod's residence, which was greatly enjoyed by many people who were attracted by the sweet music. Altogether, the day seemed to be one of much pleasure both for the visitors as well as the townspeople.

The term of court which convened Monday morning has been grinding slowly but several unfortunates have been given positions on the chain gang. We have not seen it, but understand the grand jury handed in a report which showed that the members of that body had not failed to carry out the court's instructions in regard to the jail delivery this week.

As a result of the large quantities of coal that is being put in by our people, the wood market seems to have taken a tumble, as during the week the very best fat pine has been sold for $2.50 per cord, delivered in the yard. Dealers in coal stoves and grates are now receiving the benefit of coal taking the place of wood.

The most disagreeable night of the Fall, which happened to be Wednesday night of this week, a gentleman, after supper, who had not had time during the day to look over that morning's Star, asked for his paper that he might look over it while he enjoyed his cigar. He was informed that another gentleman in the vicinity had borrowed the paper for a little while and had failed to return it. We have thrown away much valuable time trying to convince that sinner that he needed the Star, but we can't convert him, and never will do so while his neighbors continue to supply him free of cost. But that is not all, Thursday morning the gentleman who had borrowed the paper the day before, actually took from the overcoat pocket of his neighbor, his paper before breakfast, and forgot to return it. Ye Gods and little fishes!

It is said that when Jnuge Carter discharged the grand jury yesterday he made a talk that every citizen in the county should have heard, bearing on the condition of things in the county. He is said to have made the statement that during the past five years, according to figures, there had been a greater number of homicides and murders committed in Robeson county with its 50,000 population, than in the Dominion of Canada, with a population of 6,000,000. These are facts to put the people to thinking.

A wagon which would have added much to a big parade here yesterday, appeared on the street, and caused much comment, some claiming that it had much political significance attached to it while others did not think so. The decoration consisted of a persimmon tree well loaded with persimmons upon the branches of which were four live o'possums with a dog standing at the root of the tree. Some said "Simmons," other said "Kitchin" would eat all the "Simmons" in the State. We are one of those who do not believe that the person or persons who decorated the wagon ever dreamed of such a thing as any such construction would be put on their effort to make things a little interesting for the school children. We were told last night that the outfit was gotten up by one of the Governor's best friends. Others wanted to say some "cuss" words and claimed that it came with poor taste.

Messrs. J. A. (Sandy) Barker and G. W. Barfield went down on the Big Swamp on a hunting trip Monday night and had tremendous fine luck. We are told that they caught two coons, three o'possums, three pole cats and one fox. Mr. Baker was indisposed Tuesday, but we did not hear how Mr. Barfield was getting along. The dogs are also taking a rest and not eating much.

We have it straight that a leading Robeson county citizen recently went to another county to try to buy a lawyer, not to hire, but to buy. He knew that his own county had plenty of able lawyers, and he knew too, that he could not buy them. They are not for sale, but what he got when he tried to purchase in another county was a plenty. When he made his proposition he was told to go "where they don't shovel snow." Right.

The new motion picture show which was thrown open to the public yesterday afternoon, was visited by large crowds during the evening and night. The show is equipped with a new Edison machine and the latest model, and the pictures used to open the show were highly pleasing. The show will start every evening just as soon as the electric current is turned on and will run until 10 o'clock.

Lumberton has been getting some mighty good shows so far this season, and it is expected that the "Firing Line" which will be presented here Monday night will be one of the best of the entire season. The snow will arrive here tomorrow evening from Newbern.

Among the visitors in town yesterday was a man and his wife who brought in for sale six eggs and eight ounces of butter. That might sound like they are not large poultry or cow raisers, but when the price of these luxuries is considered that is not so small after all.

The proprietors of the Lumberton barber shop expect to be back at their old stand in the Columbia Hotel building by the middle of next week.

A brokerage firm here received a few days ago the first solid car of bananas we ever heard of being shipped to this place.

Fresh string beans were offered for sale here yesterday at a grocery store at 10 cents a quart or three quarts for a quarter. They were grown at Marion, S. C.

It does seem that the Seaboard would drop a load or two of gravel at the passenger station during wet weather such as we have been having the past few days, it is almost impossible to board a train without wading through water from the waiting room to the train. And for outside lights at the station, they are not there.

Turkeys are beginning to make themselves heard in good many directions, but then Thanksgiving is only a little over three weeks off.

There may be plenty of birds at this time, but their days are numbered. Two hunters yesterday brought in 45 and sold them at 15 cents each.

Yesterday as Governor Kitchin, Congressman Godwin, Senator Cobb and Mr. Sandy McLeod went up street in Mr. McLeod's automobile, one gentleman made the remark "there goes a fine looking set of gentlemen." A young man who heard the remark, said: "Yes, but if that car was loaded with Lumberton girls it would be much more attractive." With all due respect to the gentelmen in the car, that remark showed good judgment.

The iron bridge across the river at the foot of Fifth street has been repaired and is again open for travel. New timbers and a new floor have been put in. The work was done none too soon as the bridge was getting to be dangerous in some places.

We are delighted to hear that the old-time corn shuckings are coming into fashion again. We have heard of several during the season. Those old-time corn shucking songs carry us back to other days which we enjoyed, and which we would like to live over again.

When the prohibition election was pulled off in this State a few years ago we remember one gentleman who wore a white ribbon pinned to his coat and almost denounced everyone who did not think as he talked. He was a regular "fire-eater." Yesterday we saw that man slip off with a friend and "treat" him to a drink of whiskey. Consistency, etc.

Prof. N. D. Johnson, was a Lumberton visitor yesterday after an absence of four years. For some time Prof. Johnson has been a great sufferer from rheumatism, so much so that he has been forced to give up his work of teaching. For many years he was one of the leading educators of this section of the State.

Messrs. Rudolph Carlyle and S. F. Caldwell left last night for Greensboro on a pleasure trip.—Mr. C. B. Skipper is having material placed on his lot for the erection of a handsome new residence.

Rennert is going to have a big lot sale next Wednesday and then on Friday the big Townsend estate at Raynham will be disposed of at auction. The property will be sold in lots. Raynham, being in one of the best sections of the county, these lots should bring fancy prices.

TAFT'S ENGINEERS REPORT.

Friends of Niagara Falls Interested in Preservation of Their Beauty

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Nov. 11.—The millions of friends of Niagara Falls who fear that water diverted for the Erie Canal and power purposes will intefere with the grandeur of the scene, will be interested in the report of United States Army engineers to be submitted to Congress at the coming session. This report shows that the natural action of the water—the grinding away of the soft rock shelf at the toe of the famous Horseshoe—is what threatens most to damage the appearance of the Falls.

The engineers appointed by Mr. Taft while he was Secretary of War under President Roosevelt, report that according to scientific measurements the entire change made in the crest of the American Falls owing to water diversion amounts to a lowering of the sheet of water by .052 of a foot, the lowering of the crest of the Horseshoe being .5 of a foot. In figures more intelligible this means that the crest line of the American Falls is lowered 5-8 of an inch out of an average depth of 24 inches, the lowering of the crest of the Horseshoe or Canadian Falls being 6 inches out of an average depth of 72 inches—a decrease so slight that neither the keenest eye nor the most delicate camera can observe it.

The damage which the falls have done to themselves is in the very middle of the Horseshoe where the water has gouged into the soft rock a 20-foot-deep, V-shaped notch. This acts as a channel which draws away water from the shallower ends of the falls and which is eating its way upstream at a rate of more than five feet a year.

The report recommends that the governments of the State of New York and the Province of Ontario plan a sunken V-shaped dam above the notch. The swift-rushing water, striking against the apex of this concealed dam, will be deflected toward the ends of the falls and the falls will thereby regain something of their original natural appearance.

SHEEP AND GOATS.

Texas Association Will Fight Free Wool—Republican Ticket

(Special Star Correspondence.)

San Antonio, Texas, Nov. 11.—The Texas Sheep and Goat Raising Association prrposes fighting free wool and is working now to raise a fund with which to keep a paid attorney in Washington this Winter to represent the association in an effort to prevent the passage of a free wool bill or other laws that might affect the future of the wool-growing industry. It is pointed out that during the years of 1893 to 1897, when wool and mohair were the free list, wool brought such a low price that 50 per cent. of the Texas wool growers were forced out of business, and the enormous decrease in the number of sheep amounted to 38 per cent. of the sheep stock of Texas during those years.

An uninstructed delegation from Texas to the Republican National Convention next year is believed by some of the leading Republicans of the State to be the wish of Cecil A. Lyon, the recognized "boss" of the regular Republican organization in the State, and chairman of the State Republican executive committee. Col. Lyon is at present on a hunt on his ranch in Mexico, but when he returns is expected to make his wishes known.

It is said Chairman Lyon came near breaking with President Taft a year ago, but a truce was arranged. Announcement from him that he wishes an uninstructed delegation will worry every one of Taft's appointees in Texas, who, unwilling to oppose his desires actively and openly, are just as unwilling to attend a national convention of their party without standing vociferously for the renomination of Presidentt Taft.

The activitiy of the LaFollete campaign bureau and the arguments emanating from that source are causing considerable uneasiness among the Republicans in Texas that wish to see President Taft re-nominated.

SCHOONERS WINDBOUND.

Many of Them Tug at Anchor Chains in Hampton Roads.

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 6.—Windbound, the majority of them for over two weeks, and one for 35 days, a fleet of 26 schooners, trading up and down the North Atlantic coast, are now tugging impatiently at their anchor chains in Hampton Roads, while their captains bemoan the unfavorable winds and figure the loss in dollars and cents the delay is costing.

According to a statement made by a well versed shipping authority today, the fleet of wind jammers now tied up in Hampton Roads between Cape Henry and Thimble shoal light, is the largest blockade of the past five years.

Among the schooners windbound are the following: Lucie Wheatley, Abbie H. Gheen, N. H. Burrow, T. Morris Perot, O. H. Brown, Grace Van Dusen, Zacheus Sherman, Greenleaf Johnson, E. R. Kirk, Lydia H. Roper, Charles Olcott, H. S. Lanfair, Warren Adams, Henry Weatherington, Ellen M. Golder, Northland, Melvin P. Smith, J. R. Teel and Helen Housbrouck.

Saved Many from Death

"What I always like to do," he writes, "is to recommend Dr. King's New Discovery for weak, sore lungs, hard colds, hoarseness, obstinate coughs, la grippe, croup, asthma or other bronchial affection, for I feel sure that a number of my neighbors are alive and well today because they took my advice to use it. SCENES IN TRIPOLI.

By CHARLES N. LURIE.

TWO lines of type in a war dispatch from Rome—only eleven words—chronicled a few days ago a forward step of the world toward complete civilization and a realization of the "brotherhood of man" which has been for ages the dream of publicists and poets. The words read, "The Italian authorities at Tripoli today issued a proclamation suppressing slavery." The language is simple, but pregnant with meaning. The words should be recorded in the history of the world with the emancipation proclamation. They tell of the dawning of hope for millions of human beings in the formerly "dark" continent.

The dispatch goes on to say, "Tripoli was the only remaining port on the coast of Africa where slavery still prevailed, notwithstanding the efforts of Great Britain on the one side and France on the other to prevent the traffic." The world has heard little until very recently of these efforts and of the international crime at the eradication of which they were aimed. They have not been very vigorous efforts.

The attention of the civilized world has not been called strongly enough or often enough to the horrors of the long slave trail from interior Africa to the slave markets of the Ottoman empire, passing through Tripoli, whereon millions of Africans, male and female, suffered indescribable tortures of mutilation, starvation, thirst, hardship and death. With Tripoli in possession of Italy, the line of communication is broken. There is no other outlet for the slave trade, and Turkey must be content to live without its supply of African slaves for its harems.

Turkey Silent About Slave Trade.

How the Ottomans will take the new situation remains to be seen. They have accused the Italians of piracy and robbery in seizing Tripoli, asserting in their appeals to the powers that the Italian action has been without shadow of right, an international theft which has taken advantage of Turkish weakness on the sea. But they have said nothing of the bones of hapless Africans bleaching on the hot Saharan sands which lie just back of the city of Tripoli, bones of African men, women, boys and girls stolen by wholesale by Arab slave traders to furnish inmates for Turkish harems and dying before they could be dragged to Tripoli and thence to Constantinople.

Recently Turkey, bowing to the susceptibilities of her European neighbors, suppressed the public sale of slaves in Constantinople. But those who are in a position to know assert that the slave trade still exists and continues in all its ugliness and vileness by means of underground channels and that the Turk who wishes slaves, male and female, and has the money to pay for them has no difficulty in making his purchases.

Not Much For Italy In Tripoli.

Although the land of Tripoli is 900 miles wide and 650 miles deep, stretching in the former dimension along the southern coast of the Mediterranean sea directly south of Italy, and in the latter southward to the great desert, and it contains about 400,000 square miles of territory, its commercial interests are not large. There is little agriculture to form the basis of trade, the fertile land consisting of a narrow strip along the coast, and manufacture is known only on a small, rude, primitive scale. The population is estimated at about a million and a quarter, and the trade with foreign countries has seldom if ever exceeded $5,000,000 in one year. Italy can hope to gain little or nothing in Tripoli in the way of financial return, save perhaps in the control of the trade routes from central Africa to the Mediterranean. Even these must meet the growing competition of the paths to the two oceans and the flow of commerce through Egypt, now tranquil under British rule. The city of Tripoli (population about 30,000) has, however, the advantage of being several hundred miles nearer the great marts of central Africa than either Tunis or Algiers, and, of course, it is still nearer to them than are Cairo and Alexandria, centers of Egyptian trade.

In the land of Tripoli itself only barley, wheat, dates, grapes and olives are grown to any extent. More attention is paid to stock raising, the famous fat tailed sheep and cattle being the principal animals. Near the coast there are sulphur and salt, and there are small sponge fisheries off the coast. South of Tripoli city is obtained the esparto grass, which forms the basis of some of the paper making of Great Britain and other countries. The chief domestic exports are wool, oil and cattle, while from the interior of Africa come gold, ivory, skins, ostrich feathers, rubber and a few other products, besides the slaves, which have given Tripoli its evil repute.

Features of the traffic in esparto grass are shown in the photographs. The gathering, transportation, baling and export of this grass form one of the principal items of Tripolitan industry. The plant was known to the ancients, who used it in the making of cordage, matting, etc., and it is used still more extensively in the present day. It yields a good quality of paper, and many of the English magazines, known throughout the world for the fineness of their print, are printed on paper made from esparto grass.

The City of Tripoli.

The city of Tripoli, seized by Italy as her first spoil of war, lies on the Mediterranean coast. Its harbor is poor and dangerous and is marked by hulks of ships which have come to grief on the rocks. The town is divided, like most oriental places, into quarters for the various races which inhabit it. Italians and Maltans have formed heretofore the bulk of the foreign residents, of whom there have been several thousands. For the most part the city is well built of stone. There are but few trees, and the town is very hot in the summer season, but has a pleasant climate during the rest of the year. The streets are narrow streaks of mud, neglected, like the avenues of virtually all oriental cities. One of the sights is the governor's palace and residence, beneath which are dungeons which could tell interesting tales of prisoners sent from Constantinople to Tripoli to repent of agitation against the sultan.

"Our Mary" Anderson's Visit to America

MARY ANDERSON DE NAVARRO.

"BLESS my soul, how long did you say it is since 'Our Mary' left the stage? Twenty-two years? I can't believe you. It seems such a very short time since I saw her playing Juliet. You say she's here again in this country? And she's going to act? No? Well, well, that's too bad!"

And the old theater goer sits back in his easy chair, his hands clasped and his half closed eyes and reminiscent smile showing that he is living over again the days in the seventies and eighties of the past century, when "Our Mary," Anderson, the young tragedienne, charmed him and thousands of his friends into the belief that she was the greatest actress in the world. Crusty critics might pick flaws in Mary Anderson's technique; they might contrast her readings and representations of Shakespeare's heroines with those of other, more ripened, older actresses, but to the man in the audience and to the woman, too, she was the embodiment of beauty and grace and artistry.

So it is that those who recall the acting of Mary Anderson and those who have heard and read of her as one of the greatest actresses America has ever produced find interest in the announcement of her third visit to her native country since her retirement from the stage in 1889. She crossed the ocean to see the first performance of the play, "The Garden of Allah." She helped in the writing of the play, collaborating with Robert Hichens, the author of the book on which the play is based. With her came her husband, Antonio de Navarro, to be married to whom she retired from the stage, never to return. They left their son, now in his fifteenth year, and their young daughter at their beautiful English home, the Court Farm, near Broadway, in Worcestershire, England. Mary Anderson has visited America three times since her marriage in London in 1890. She was here in 1899 and in 1908, and last year Mr. de Navarro made a hurried trip to America to be present at the deathbed of his mother in New York.

The world accepted as final, but with real regret, years ago Mary Anderson's "No!" to the often repeated question whether she would ever return to the stage. Fifteen years ago it was written of her that "she presents, unquestionably, the most remarkable example ever known of voluntary and contented relinquishment of a brilliant career crowned with fame, wealth, the homage of the public and the favor of great men and illustrious women."

Of course there have been from time to time unfounded reports that Mary Anderson would return to the stage. But they carried with them their own denials, for they told of her happy home life in England with her husband and her children. Those who knew the determination with which she had renounced the stage and its triumphs knew that it had nothing to offer her which she had not already had in abundance. She left it after a career of thirteen years, most of which were filled with acclamations. She was only sixteen when she first acted on the stage, in 1875. "Who's Who" in England tells us that she was "idle at school and unsuccessful; began stage life at sixteen, very successful; left stage at twenty-eight; flattering offers to return refused; retired in 1889, early in the year." Since that time she has taken part in dramatic readings and has sung (she has a beautiful contralto voice), but only for charity. Some years ago it was reported that a New York manager had engaged her for a series of readings, but the report had no foundation.

Louisville claims Mary Anderson as its own, and it is generally believed that she was born in the Kentucky city. That is not the case, however. She was born in Sacramento, Cal., on July 28, 1859. She was taken to Louisville when she was very young and received her schooling in the Ursuline convent and Presentation academy in that city. Friends of her days in that city have left interesting stories of her beauty and grace and amateur acting. Her first professional appearance was made at McCauley's theater, in Louisville, Nov. 25, 1875, as Juliet. It was successful, and soon afterward Mary became a member of Mrs. Chanfrau's company at the Varieties in New Orleans in "Meg Merrilies."

The popularity of Mary Anderson was not confined to America. England welcomed her as one of America's most beautiful and talented actresses. It is said that the late William E. Gladstone first applied to her the term "Our Mary," by which she came to be so well known.

Mary Anderson's life in England is ideal. She is the "Lady Bountiful" of the poor folk who live near her home. "We pride ourselves on having one of the prettiest villages in the country and one of the very best women in the whole world. The charity and good deeds of Mr. and Mrs. de Navarro know no limit. She is just the sweetest woman that ever drew breath and never tires of doing things to make us happy," said one of her neighbors.

ARTHUR J. BRINTON.

Brandeis, Soldier of the Commonweal

EXPERIENCE + personal disinterestedness + zeal for the public welfare = efficiency in serving the public.

That is the formula making up Louis D. Brandeis. The public has heard much of Brandeis in the past year. It will hear more of him in the future. His latest appearance in the moving picture of American affairs is as attorney for big tobacco associations in opposition to the reorganization plan of the American Tobacco company, the "tobacco trust."

Viewed from one point, Brandeis is most thoroughly and typically American. Viewed from another, he does not fit at all into the picture of modern American life. He is industrious, active, energetic, purposeful, and thus is a Yankee of the Yankees. But he upsets our notions of Americanism by caring nothing at all about the fortune which might have been his long ago if he had cared about amassing it. So he is not American at all. And as he is certainly not a foreigner, for despite all talk about American greed and grasping the people of other countries are keener about money than we are, we are forced to the conclusion that Brandeis is sui generis—a man of a sort all by himself. Let's call him a soldier of the commonweal.

In the first place, Brandeis is a student. Like Francis Bacon, who took all 'knowledge' to be his province, Brandeis thinks it his duty to study everything that interests the American people as a whole. In the second place, he is a lawyer, the unpaid attorney of important public causes. He is a good lawyer, too, and has a large private practice, which he does not permit to interfere with his public work. In the third place, he is a man of the keenest reasoning power.

Asked why he devotes so much of his time to the solution of public problems, Brandeis replies that he does so because he finds his recreation therein. When other lawyers devote their leisure to chasing golf balls over the links, Brandeis chases statistics through big, leather bound volumes of reports. He has made enough money in thirty-two years of law practice, he says, to supply the wants of himself and his family, and he does not need or want a fortune. So he engages, without pay, be it understood, in public causes, such as the Glavis-Pinchot-Ballinger affair, the Boston gas case, the tobacco trust case, the increase in freight rates investigation and others, simply because he thinks his fellow citizens should benefit by his legal training and his acute mind. He does not ask for money, public office, glory, credit or any other form of remuneration. He desires simply a hearing after he has studied a subject and thinks the public should hear what he has to say about it. And while Brandeis has been somewhat criticised recently as a theorist and a dreamer and a Utopian, there is cumulative evidence that the American public is willing to listen to him.

Boston has known Brandeis for twenty years or more as a volunteer worker for the city and the state in such matters as the reduction of the price of gas, the awarding of public franchises to bring the greatest good to the greatest number, the increase in life insurance for wage earners, etc. Some fame among national students of economics was also his before January of last year, but the public first took notice of him when at that time he told the railroad men before the interstate commerce commission that advances in freight rates were not needed; that the railroads could save all the money they needed by reducing the waste in their costs of operation. He wound up by saying that he and the "efficiency engineers" of whom the country has heard much of late could show the railroads how to save $1,000,000 a day. Thereupon some big railroad men got together in an indignation meeting, asserted that Brandeis was talking for effect and knew little or nothing about the business of running railroads and offered him any salary he wanted to name if he could save them anything like the sum he had mentioned.
